President Selects Saxbe

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, who suggested last December that President Nixon had "taken leave of his senses" for ordering the bombing of Hanoi, was chosen by the President today to be his new attorney general.

Saxbe, a 57-year-old first term senator who announced recently he would not run for reelection next year, was the nominee to succeed Elliot L. Richardson, who resigned Oct. 20 after refusing an order by Nixon to fire Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor.

Saxbe is a lawyer and a former state attorney general of Ohio, where he had intended to return to his cattle farm after his current term expires.

Nixon went to the White House press center to personally announce the nomination, while Saxbe stood by his side smiling.

Nixon said Saxbe "is an individual who wants to take this position to do everyhing he possibly can to serve the nation as the first lawyer of the nation."

Saxbe has been a frequent Nixon critic on some issues, including Watergate, and was quoted as saying the President "must have taken leave of his senses" when he ordered the bombing of Hanoi at Christmastime last year.

While bluntly opposing some Nixon actions—on Watergate he once said the President "is like the man who plays piano in a house of ill repute and says he doesn't know what's going on upstairs" —Saxbe has supported the administration strongly on other issues.

He defended Nixon's unsuccessful efforts to name G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court in 1970.

Ohio's governor, Democrat John J. Gilligan, who lost in the 1968 senatorial election to Saxbe, would name a Democrat to serve out the remainder of Saxbe's term.

Speculation has centered on Cleveland millionaire Howard E. Metzenbaum, who lost to Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, in the 1970 senatorial election.

After meeting with Nixon yesterday to discuss the possibility of his appointment, Saxbe said he had offered himself for the job "warts and all."

"I have been around here five years, bitching about what I would do if I had the opportunity. All at once, they give me the ball. Should I throw it away? Its not something you just walk away from."

Only last Sunday Saxbe was quoted as saying "Nixon is through, finished in terms of his effectiveness over the next few years." But today, following his appointment, he said "I certainly don't feel inhibited in talking about the job," adding that he was anxious to help solve the problems of the country and to get the nation "back to routine affairs . . ."

Crucial Dean Tape Taken From Safe

Agent Says Orders Came From High Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Secret Service agent said today that a crucial Watergate tape covering the period of President Nixon's talk with his former counsel, John W. Dean III, was taken from a safe on July 11 on orders of senior White House officials.

The agent conceded that his original notes on when tapes were removed and returned did not indicate whether the tapes in question had ever been returned although a log compiled later showed they were brought back the next day.

The White House has said that there is no recording of the April 15 Nixon-Dean talks—considered crucial to Watergate prosecution because Dean said he told the President he was cooperating with authorities—because the taping equipment malfunctioned.

Prosecutors raised the possibility today that the tapes covering the period of April 11-16 which were removed in July were taken from the White House in July by former presidential adviser H.R. Haldeman, listened to and never returned.

Richard Ben-Veniste, a lawyer for the Watergate special prosecution force, elicited through cross-examination of Secret Service agent Raymond C. Zumwalt that the critical tape was removed from a safe on orders of senior White House officials at a time that Haldeman is known to have listened to at least one of Nixon's tape recorded conversations bearing on Watergate.

Zumwalt conceded that his original raw notes do not indicate that the critical April tape was ever returned although a transcription of those notes made July 18 showed it was.

Haldeman, who quit as White House Chief of Staff, April 30 in a major post-Watergate shakeup, testified before the Senate Watergate committee last summer that he had taken several of the tapes home to review in mid-July. But he said that he listened to only one, dated Sept. 15, 1972.

Zumwalt said he was not told for whom the tapes were destined when he released them from a locked safe July 11.

"Do you know whether the tape recording of a conversation between the President of the United States and John W. Dean on April 15, 1973, was given to Mr. Haldeman in July of 1973?" Ben-Veniste asked.

"No," Zumwalt replied.

Earlier, the White House offered to let a federal judge listen to a tape of the period during which the President talked with Dean to hear for himself that a crucial part of the conversation never was recorded.

The White House also recommended that electronics experts be called in to certify that Nixon's remaining secret tapes "are complete and have not been tampered with" in any way.

White House lawyer J. Fred Buzhardt made the offers at a hearing before Chief U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica about stunning disclsoure that two of the nine tape recordings Nixon has promised to produce under court order apparently never existed.

The schedule posted outside Sirica's courtroom said the hearing, recessed from yesterday, was "to ascertain the reasons, if any, relative to the nonexistence" of the critical tapes.

The two conversations that the White House now says do not exist involved a telephone call from Nixon to John N. Mitchell on June 20, 1972, three days after the Watergate bugging arrests; and an hour-long meeting between Nixon and Dean on April 15, shortly before Dean was fired as White House counsel.

Buzhardt said the Nixon-Dean meeting was not recorded be-

A PLAN FOR THE FUTURE

Checks, Balances For Developing San Rafael

By NELS JOHNSON
(Fourth of six articles)

"If San Rafael is going to achieve its objectives for housing and environmental protection, it is essential that basic revisions in approach be made to reviewing and approving major residential development proposals," according to the city's initial general plan report.

The approach envisioned by city consultants, called the Residential Analysis Procedure (RAP), consists of a nine-part process under which development proposals pass for city and public review.

Under the recommended procedure, new development proposals would be balanced against a set of "residential development regulations" that establish performance standards and criteria to which all development must conform, including regulations relating slope conditions to density and open space dedication required.

An array of proposed policies, development performance standards and criteria will be outlined in the revised general plan to be issued in January, according to the consultants.

The RAP would require:

1. Developers to study residential development regulations and analytic maps provided by the city.
2. Developers to review preliminary development proposals with the planning department.
3. Developers to submit development proposals to the planning department before a deadline.
4. The planning department to prepare environmental impact reports on the proposals.
5. The planning department to allow residents to review the proposals and impact reports.
6. Developers to revise the proposals and resubmit them to the planning department before a deadline.
7. The planning department to make a final review of the

Objections Raised To Portions Of Corte Madera General Plan

By BILL ROBERTS

Major objections to the proposed Corte Madera general plan's housing element and proposals to consolidate Corte Madera and Larkspur into one city were reported today by the citizens' general plan committee.

Patricia Black, town secretary who officially took notes of the committee's proposed changes, reported the objections reflect consensus of the 30 to 40 persons who attended October workshop meetings on the general plan's preliminary draft.

Although asking that the plan's housing element be adopted in its present form, the group recommended a committee to keep the element under continuous review and propose amendments to fit circumstances as they change.

The housing element subcommittee said it had not been representative of the entire community and had not received enough professional guidance in making recommendations on the element.

The committee said a housing priority list, now in the plan, should be omitted. Such a list would tend to raise property values and substitute guidelines for town planning commission judgment in determining which housing projects will be built.

Tax relief for elderly residents and permitting them to build second dwellings on existing property for rental income were suggested as changes in the element that would assure that elderly residents "may stay in their homes."

The committee recommends that specific average growth limits be instituted through the general plan but gave no details of achieving such limits.

Commercial zoning changes were proposed so that all developments would be subject to use permit procedures in the area east of Highway 101, south of the lagoon area, west of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way and north of San Clemente Drive.

Presently, according to William McBride, town zoning administrator, any use which meets existing zoning require-

Texan Named To Fill Cox's Role As Watergate Prosecutor

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Leon Jaworski, a Texas lawyer who served under two Democratic presidents and on numerous presidential commissions, was appointed today to replace Archibald Cox as the special Watergate prosecutor.

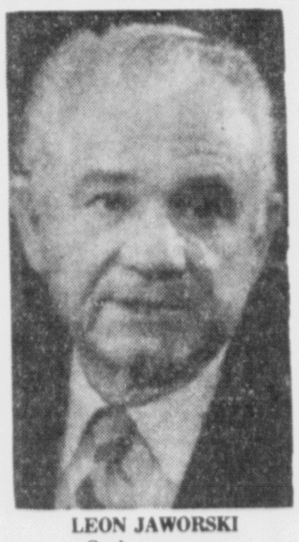

"There will be no restrictions on his freedom," acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork said in making the announcement. "He has been promised the full cooperation of the executive branch."

Bork also said President Nixon will not discharge the special prosecutor, as he did Cox, without first getting the agreement of the majority of congressional leaders.

Cox was fired when he refused to obey Nixon's order not to continue his court fight for the Watergate tapes.

Bork said Jaworski, a former president of the American Bar Association, would have the power to sign his own indictments, was promised full cooperation with the Justice Department and the White House and would be allowed to initiate legal action against the President to obtain necessary documents.

Bork said Jaworski wanted it understood from the outset that he would be independent and "that was agreed by all around."

LEON JAWORSKI
Cox's successor

Jaworski said in a news conference outside his Houston office he was first approached about the job before the appointment of Cox, but turned it down because "I did not think at the time the independence was there that is there now."

He said he accepted the position now since "this was a call to duty."

"The American people are entitled to have some answers without waiting forever," he said, "and I intend to get those answers."

Nixon, at a news conference announcing his nomination of Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, to be the next attorney general, said he had discussed the appointment of Jaworski with congressional leaders and it was agreed he "is the best we could get for this very important appointment."

Jaworski, 68, a former special assistant to the attorney general under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson and a member of several presidential commissions, was not present at the announcement. He was in Washington Wednesday but had to return to Houston on business.

Plan For Ring Mountain Cuts Density Proposals

By REBECCA LARSEN

A fringe of cluster developments totaling about 800 units and circling a mountaintop of open space is proposed by a citizens' planning group as the future master plan for Ring Mountain, the long ridge which divides the Tiburon Peninsula from the rest of Marin County.

The Ring Mountain Advisory Group plans to present its proposal to the Corte Madera City Council and the Strawberry Area Community Council Monday and to the Tiburon City Council Nov. 12 to get those agencies views.

The group then will prepare a final proposal for the 700-acre peak which may be presented to the county planning commission by the year's end.

County supervisors appointed the group last summer at the suggestion of Supervisor Michael Wornum. It includes representatives from Strawberry and from the cities of Tiburon and Corte Madera, including some city councilmen.

Most of the mountain acreage is unincorporated but portions spill over into the city limits of Tiburon and Corte Madera.

The group's chairman,

Trip Rehearsal Set Tomorrow

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Technicians battened down the Skylab 3 booster rocket and crew ferry ship today for rehearsal launch tomorrow morning.

The countdown clock was to run until the T-minus-8-second mark, the moment before ignition, to make sure all systems of the space machine were ready to blast the third and final Skylab crew into orbit Nov. 10.

Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue, the first all-rookie astronaut crew since 1966, were receiving final briefings and running their last series of drills at the Johnson Space Center in Houston. Their mission has been planned for at least 60 days, but could last as long as 85.

Trapped Egyptians Try To Break Israeli Trap

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Elements of the trapped Egyptian 3rd Army tried to break out of Israeli encirclement on the east bank of the Suez Canal today but were thrown back in a one-hour battle, an Israeli military spokesman reported. He said the Egyptians used tanks and artillery.

The second flareup on the Suez Canal front in two days came while Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir was in Washington for Middle East talks with President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi also was in Washington but there was no indication the Egyptian and Israeli leaders would meet.

Israel said it killed six Egyptian soldiers in two incidents yesterday.

Egyptian government sources in Cairo reported today that Egypt had redeployed its troops near Suez City to break out of Israeli encirclement there to drive Israeli troops back past the Oct. 22 cease-fire lines, but those troops are on the west or Egyptian side. Today's fighting was in the Sinai on the Israeli side.

An Israeli military spokesman said the fighting began at 7:30 a.m. when about 150 Egyptian troops advanced east out of their perimeter toward Israel's front line. The Israelis first fired warning shots, then fired for effect, the spokesman said.

Exactly what the Egyptian troops were trying to accomplish was unclear, the spokesman said, but then Egyptian tanks moved up with artillery support and joined the battle.

"We opened fire again and this movement toward our lines stopped," Col. Nachman Karni told a news briefing. He said he had only incomplete details.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Berlin Warning

BERLIN (UPI) — Erich Honecker, first secretary of the East German Communist party, warned today that smuggling refugees through the Berlin Wall could damage East-West relations.

Honecker, in an interview with the Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland, accused West Germany of encouraging the abuse of routes running through East Germany to West Berlin.

The interview appeared as an East Berlin court tried three West Germans charged with smuggling refugees to the West over the transit routes in violation of the Big Four Agreement on access to Berlin.

Vesco Indicted

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal grand jury yesterday indicted fugitive financier Robert I. Vesco for the third time in the continuing effort to have him extradited to the United States from his Caribbean hideaway.

The sealed indictment, which was filed last July 20, charged that Vesco defrauded the International Controls Corp. of Fairfield, N.J., a firm he once controlled, of $50,000.

The previous indictments, which alleged attempted fraud, were ruled by a Costa Rican court to deal with non-extraditable offenses. Bahama's courts never acted on them.

Shipper Woes

CHICAGO (UPI) — Helen Delich Bentley, chairman of the Federal Maritime Commission, yesterday said U.S. shipping companies would be out of business by the year 2000 unless big changes are made.

Speaking at the National Safety Council convention, Mrs. Bentley made several optimistic forecasts, but she warned that "more imaginative and innovative management leadership" was needed if the shippers are to survive.

"Unless there are some major changes in the American liner business, in my opinion there won't be any U.S. shipping companies left by the end of the current century," she said.

Troop Reductions

VIENNA (UPI) — The United States plans to push for quick reductions in American and Soviet troop levels in Europe during East-West talks on military cuts in the region, U.S. officials said today.

Delegates from the Warsaw Pact and North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations opened the negotiations two days ago and agreed to begin detailed talks on force reductions next Tuesday.

The U.S. officials said the first phase of the talks will concentrate on force cuts by the superpowers in Central Europe followed by negotiations on troop reductions by East and West European nations in the region.

Cholera Outbreak

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Rhodesian officials have quarantined tribal areas on the country's northern border with Mozambique because of an outbreak of cholera, a Health Ministry spokesman said today.

Roadblocks Fail

BELFAST (UPI) — Members of a paramilitary Protestant organization set up roadblocks at minor frontier crossings today but failed to seal off the border between Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic as threatened.

Police said uniformed members of the extremist Ulster Defense Association halted traffic on minor roads, but avoided major intersections linking Ulster and the republic.

Rebels Kill Six

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Rebels firing rockets and tossing grenades killed six persons and wounded 13 others early today in an attack against a suburban Phnom Penh hamlet housing disabled war veterans.

Residents said the Communist-led Khmer Rouge guerrillas attacked the hamlet of Kambaul, nine miles southwest of Phnom Penh, shortly after midnight, opening fire on sleeping veterans and their families.

Peace Congress

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Moscow-sponsored World Congress of Peace Forces ended last night by calling for a peace program that ignored the issue of dissent in the Soviet Union and other Communist countries.

Although a few delegates had accused the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia of persecuting dissidents and had appealed for amnesty for political prisoners, there was no hint of this in the final communique of the congress.

While the communique suggested there had been differences of opinion in the 14 working commissions by saying that more than 3,000 delegates had reached "large consensus" rather than unanimity on the subjects under discussion, it did not detail the differences.

No Viet Peace

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today there has been no progress toward peace in Vietnam since the Jan. 28 cease-fire and indicated he may ask for U.S. air power if the Communists launch a new offensive.

Thieu, speaking at National Day ceremonies, said the only advances in South Vietnam since the cease-fire have been "in war by the Communists, not progress in peace."

Later, in a national television speech, Thieu claimed the number of North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam has risen to 400,000 since the cease-fire and charged Hanoi has sent in "600 tanks and 600 artillery pieces of all types" while doubling its antiaircraft capabilities.

Rebozo Denies Wrongdoing With $100,000 Donation

MIAMI (UPI) —Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo took $100,000 in cash from Howard Hughes' intermediary and put it in his safety depost box with written instructions that it be turned over to President Nixon's 1972 campaign officials "if something should happen to me," he said in an interview published in today's Miami Herald.

In a candid, but sometimes complex account, Rebozo broke his usual silence on political matters to deny any wrongdoing and to proclaim that 12 weeks of intensive Internal Revenue Service scrutiny had cleared him of any impropriety in the contribution controversy.

The Herald, in its copyright story, said its five reporters and editors met with Rebozo yesterday morning at the Miami office of William Frates — Rebozo's friend and lawyer. Rebozo initiated the meeting, the paper said, and the President's closest friend said it was in part the urging of the President's daughter, Julie, which made him decide to publicly denounce the reports of recent weeks.

He said he did not check with Nixon in advance of the meeting yesterday specifically, but, "I told him that I had finally come to the conclusion that I was going to talk to the press and that I thought it would probably be the Miami Herald."

The interview evoked repeated denials of news reports that Rebozo had used influence to keep competition away from his

Returned Hughes money

Key Biscayne bank; "laundered" campaign checks from the Bahamas; knew in advance that he had once been given stolen bonds; or served as a Nixon fund raiser, although he admitted "arranging" some meetings for prospective GOP donors.

In response to the interviewers' questions, Rebozo said:

He never told the President about the Hughes donation before the 1972 race and hoped that if internal conflicts "blew over" in the billionaire's corporate family the money could be used for congressional candidates in 1974.

"There was no question in my mind what it was for," referring to the Hughes contribution for Nixon's presidential campaign. He said the money was in cash in two $50,000 installments, the first in 1970, which countered a report that the funds were intended for the 1968 Nixon presidential campaign.

"...I'm not a fundraiser and I don't even like to handle money. In '72 I had made appointments for others. I handled very little comparatively speaking..."

The only other person he told of the Hughes contribution was Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's personal secretry, but his attorney had access to the safety depost box where he deposited the money.

"...I wrote on the outside of the envelope that if something should happen to me to give it to the campaign director or finance chairman of the '72 campaign. The lawyer didn't know what was in it ..."

He returned the money after the IRS investigation began and a careful IRS audit of the money turned up an extra $100 bill, showing the Hughes contribution was in fact for $100,100.

"I haven't denied the fact that I gave the money back after the investigation had started. Well after. There's nothing illegal about my having taken the money and I still clung to the hope it may be utilized for a useful purpose."

Lie Test Supports Space Visitor Story

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) —The president of a detective agency that administered a lie detector test to a shipyard worker says that while the test found the man believes he was taken aboard an alien spaceship, the incident didn't necessarily happen.

"The subject of our investigation, Mr. Charles Hickson, believes that it happened and we feel he is truthful in his beliefs," said Ray Pendleton of Pendleton Detective Agency, Inc., of New Orleans.

Pendleton, in an interview yesterday, said "We are not saying that it did happen. We're saying that Mr. Hickson, as close as we can determine, is being truthful about his beliefs that they did happen.

"It could have happened. Maybe it couldn't have happened. But he says it happened and we are saying that he is being truthful in his belief that it did happen."

Scott Glasgow, a polygraph operator for Pendleton, announced Tuesday Hickson, one of two Pascagoula, Miss., shipyard workers who claim they were taken aboard a glowing bluish spaceship by three creatures, had passed a lie detector test.

Glasgow, said Pendleton, found Hickson "very straightforward, levelheaded, a good subject for a polygraph examination and interested in telling his story and having somebody believe it. He didn't appear to be sideswiping the issue or evasive."

Asked what Hickson's reaction was when he was told the results of the polygraph test, Pendleton said, "Hickson seemed pretty relieved and glad that somebody believed the story, that he might have a little checkmark in his behalf."

Hickson, 42, and a young companion told authorities Oct. 11 they were fishing from a pier in the Pascagoula River when the incident occurred.

Gasoline Price Hikes Approved

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Cost of Living Council yesterday decided to allow once-a-month increases in the cost of gasoline. The change from the earlier freeze on prices was made after a months-long campaign by gas station operators who complained that theirs was the only industry in the country that was forced to absorb increases in wholesale costs without being able to pass them on to the consumer.

John T. Dunlop, director of the council, said the price hikes would only be permitted to pass on increases in the price of production. The move applies to all segments of the petroleum industry.

The airline industry, which buys about 10 billion gallons of jet fuel a year, said today that it will try to cut more than 100,000 flights a year from its schedules in an effort to conserve fuel. The cuts, scattered throughout the air route system, would total about 300 daily from the current 14,000-aday schedule.

Pan American airlines asked the Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday for permission to open talks with other airlines on reducing the number of cross-Atlantic flights, claiming the "critical scarcity" of aviation fuel for international flights "is already reflected in sharply rising fuel prices."

20-Year Term

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Frank Dasti, 58, reputed to be a high-ranking figure in the Montreal underworld, was sentenced to 20 years in prison yesterday and fined $20,000 for his alleged role in a scheme to smuggle $2.5 million worth of heroin into the United States.

Trans World Airlines was expected to do the-same in a few days.

In other developments:

The Massachusetts House of Representatives passed an initial measure for year-round daylight saving time by a 215-7 margin. Its sponsors say the change would save energy in the winter by providing for an extra hour of daylight at the end of the day.

Sixteen per cent of the street lights in three areas of Bakersfield, Calif., were to be turned off because voters turned down measures that would pay for the increased cost of electricity.

The Senate Commerce Committee approved a $340 million bill to subsidize the development of a smog-free alternative to the internal combustion engine. Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., sponsor of the measure, said the alternative engine would mean cleaner air without strict government controls on how cars are used.

Officials said schools in East Providence, R.I., and 91 districts in Indiana might be left without enough gas to run their busses this winter.

The Chase Manhattan Bank said it appears the Soviet Union may become the world's largest producers of crude oil within two years, with producing approaching 10 million barrels a day.

In Tokyo, officials of the Ministry of International Trade and Indusry said they were working on plans for oil rationing that would keep basic industries running but provide for closing freeways to private motorists, shutting down gas stations on Sundays, and a ceiling on the amount of gasoline available for private cars.

Ex-Convict Tells About Hotel Fire

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sheriff's officers said Wednesday that a bearded exconvict told them a violent fit of homosexual jealousy made him start a fire at a hotel in the French Quarter of New Orleans that killed 32 persons.

A spokesman for the Sacramento County sheriff's department said the suspect, Raymond L. Wallender, 32, told deputies he set off the blaze in a bar to gain revenge against another homosexual.

"He had a great deal of knowledge about the bar and the incident," a spokesman for the Sacramento county sheriff's office said. "It appeared he knew what he was talking about."

Two New Orleans detectives arrived yesterday to interrogate the suspect, who said he spent his time roaming the country. Miller said no murder charges had yet been filed, and that task would be up to Louisiana authorities.

Wallender was jailed here Aug. 31 on charges of grand theft and assault with a deadly weapon in the department store theft of a $200 leather coat and the alleged pulling of a knife on a security guard.

Seputies said Wallender, who has served two terms in California prisons for auto theft, claimed he was "screwed up on drugs" at the time of the fire June 29.

Deputies said Wallender touched off the fire because one of the patrons of the "Up Stairs" bar promised to pay Wallender's companion $200 for a sex act but reneged on the deal. Wallender told authorities he made sure the "cheat" was in the bar when he started the fire.

Twenty-nine persons were killed in the holocaust and three others died later from extensive burns.

The sheriff's spokesman said Wallender admitted splashing gasoline from a bucket on the door of the bar, pouring the fluid on steps leading from the cocktail lounge and touching it off with a cigarette lighter.

Wallender reportedly made the admission after sending a note to a jail sergeant saying he wanted "to make a statement on a vicious crime. A lot of people died."

The suspect, who gave no home address, said he had been traveling around the country with a couple of buddies, "pool hall hustling and stealing food," the spokesman said.

Criticism Ban On Firemen May Be Dropped

Tamalpais Fire Protection District directors will consider eliminating a district regulation that prohibits firemen from publicly criticizing their superiors. The matter will be considered at a special meeting at 7 p.m. today at the Tamalpais Community Services District office, 305 Bell Lane.

The question of how to enforce the regulation came up after a fireman criticized former Chief William Canlett during salary negotiations with directors, according to board secretary Bernard Lenhart.

Directors subsequently were advised by the county counsel's office that the regulation may violate constitutional guarantees of free speech, Lenhart said.

WATERGATE TESTIMONY — Clark MacGregor, who took over as director of President's reelection campaign in July 1972, tells members of the Senate Watergate Committee when he first learned of the break-in at the Democratic Party headquarters. His testimony came this morning.

(UPI Telephoto)

MacGregor Gives Break-In Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Clark MacGregor said today he had no knowledge of White House involvement in the Watergate break-in when he took over as director of President Nixon's reelection campaign in July 1972.

MacGregor, who replaced John N. Mitchell as campaign director, told the Senate Watergate Committee he did not suspect until the month after his appointment that others than those arrested were involved in the break-in at the Democratic headquarters. Even then, he added, he had no firm knowledge.

TAPES

cause the recording machine ran out of tape. He said he would submit the recording that does exist for April 15 "so the judge himself can hear (the tape) running out."

The Mitchell-Nixon telephone conversation, the White House said yesterday, was not recorded because the call was made from an extension in the residential wing of the White House that was not plugged into the recording system.

Buzhardt said he would call three witnesses and submit documentary evidence to prove that the tapes do not exist.

The news of the missing tapes brought immediate questions from Capitol Hill.

"There's no way on God's green earth anybody's going to believe that," said Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, which has looked into peripheral Watergate matters.

MacGregor testified he was unaware of the almost daily meetings held in July and August between then-White House Counsel John W. Dean III, Deputy Campaign Director Jeb Stuart Magruder, and other campaign and White House officials.

"I was excluded from those meetings," MacGregor said. "The first knowledge of the pattern of those meetings, and their significance came to me from these hearings."

According to previous testimony before the Watergate committee, Dean coached Magruder in those meetings on false testimony Magruder subsequently gave the Watergate grand jury.

MacGregor said he also was unaware of the "dirty tricks" carried out by Donald Segretti until he read about them in the newspapers. "When I saw the articles, I called and asked what it was all about and was told that he had been hired for...nothing illegal."

MacGregor did not specify who he called.

Asked how he felt about public statements he had issued denying White House involvement in those and other matters, he said "it doesn't make one happy to learn subsequently that one has been used."

MacGregor disputed testimony by former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray, who had told the committee he telephoned MacGregor about White House involvement in the Watergate break-in and said that Nixon's aides were trying to "mortally wound" the President by involving the FBI and the CIA in the Watergate scandal.

RING

Rampton Harvey of Tiburon, has refused to give out information on the planning map, saying he did not want any publicity on the plan until it is in its final form, in spite of the fact it will be presented at three meetings in coming weeks.

However, the Independent-Journal has learned that the map the group is developing calls for a total of about 800 units to be built in small clusters near the edge of existing developments at the mountain's base.

This total is only a fraction of the number which developers have proposed for their properties on the mountain. For example, the group is suggesting about 100 units for 450 acres owned by Thomas Deffebach Jr. of Strawberry, who has applied to the county planning department for about 1,100 single-family and multiple housing units to be built on his land.

On the 103-acre property in La Cresta area, the group is suggesting 55 to 100 units where developer Theodore P. Hudec of San Francisco had applied to the county to build 458 townhouses and apartments.

For the controversial Madera Del Presidio development area in Corte Madera, the group is proposing about 200 units where the latest proposal from CalWest Communities Inc. calls for 528 units.

To keep the mountaintop as green land would require extensive open space purchases. The advisory group has discussed the possibility of asking residents in the Ring Mountain area to finance a bond issue for the land or possibly having the county buy parts of it.

PORTIONS

ments does not require use permit review. He said the committee's proposal would provide more review of developments but would probably not be legal unless applied to all commercial zones throughout the town.

The committee called for deleting references which seek consolidation of Corte Madera and Larkspur. Consideration of merging fire, police and recreation services was not opposed.

McBride said the planning commission will meet next week to set public hearings on the plan, probably during the last week of November. He said the town council would be given the plan in early December and would probably delay hearing until three recalled councilmen are replaced in an election Dec. 18.

McBride noted that since few major changes were proposed during the final workshop meetings the planners had reflected the citizens' wishes in most respects.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels said the timing of hearings might cause the town to go past state deadline of Dec. 31 for adoption of an open space element. He claimed that if the town did not meet the deadline it would not be the only Marin city to go beyond the deadline.

Candidate In Support Of Center

A candidate for Corte Madera Town Council, seeking the seat of one of three councilmen recalled in September largely because of their support for a proposed regional shopping center, has said he would allow the center to be built.

At a meeting Tuesday of the Mariner Green Homeowners Association, Albert A. Kostelic said he would not oppose the Hahn regional shopping center if certain conditions are met.

Kostelic said adequate road systems would have to be developed so "traffic congestion would not become a way of life in East Corte Madera." He said the center should occupy no more than 45 acres of the proposed site east of Highway 101 and developers should deed the remaining 30 acres to the town as open space.

The Army Corps of Engineers must approve a proposed land fill for the site, the town redevelopment agency should incur no more than a $1,000,000 debt and final center plans must be approved by the town planning commission, according to Kostelic, if he is to support the center.

MIDEAST

and he did not report casualties.

About 20,000 soldiers of the Egyptian 3rd army are trapped on the east side of the Suez Canal between the Great Bitter Lake and the Gulf of Suez. They have repeatedly tried to break out without success.

Karni said that about 15 more trucks with food, water and medical supplies reached the beleaguered Arabs from the Egyptian side of the canal thanks to Israel's agreement, under U.S. pressure, to let supplies through.

The latest battle began, he said, when the Egyptian troops moved from their positions toward the Gidi Pass, one of three leading to interior Sinai. He did not specify whether the Egyptians were shooting.

"Perhaps they were trying to improve a minefield or fix a road," Karni said. "But when we feel threatened, we open fire."

Egyptian government sources said that should all diplomatic efforts fail to get the Israelis back behind the Oct. 22 cease-fire line Egypt will be free to take military action.

8. The planning commission or a "newly constituted board" to review proposals and make recommendations to the city council.

9. The city council to either approve or reject the proposals.

Since residential development regulations might include an absolute number of housing units to be built in an area or citywide in a given year, the basic RAP might be adapted to a quota system, or an approach setting forth minimum development standards, or other variations, according to the report.

Under the quota adaption, an annual lid on growth would be set, forcing developers to compete and theoretically stimulating more thoughtful design proposals.

Under the minimum criteria system, any development proposal able to meet strict criteria would be approved.

Other growth control methods, such as a combination of a quota system, minimum criteria, or "point" systems might also be used, the report says.

Use of the quota system by the city, however, must conform to growth patterns established by the county general plan, according to the report.

Moreover, the consultants suggest that the amount of residential development in San Rafael's portion of the Eastern Urban Corridor be set not by the city, but by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

In return, the county should agree not to approve urban development in unincorporated portions of the eastern corridor, and allow local communities to set development standards and determine what proposals will be approved, according to the report.

Some Petaluma Power Disrupted

A panel truck backed into a transformer in Petaluma last night leaving some customers without electricity for more than two hours.

A Pacific Gas and Electric spokesman said today that the truck, possibly hauling furniture, backed into the circuit on Glenwood Drive at 9:15 p.m. and left without reporting the accident.

Customers in the Glenwood Drive area of East Petaluma were without power from 30 minutes to two and a half hours while the circuit was being repaired.

Residents Say Cartoon Is Racist

A group of Novato residents have charged that a cartoon in the Oct. 24 edition of the Sinaloa Junior High School student newspaper is racist.

"I'm offended by the whole thing," said Mrs. Marvin Ashe of 2 Truman Drive, who held a protest meeting of about 30 families at her home last Friday.

The matter will be brought before the district's human awareness committee at 8 p.m. today at the Conference Room, District Administration Building.

The cartoon in a series of panels depicts a new prehistoric family moving into a cave dwelling, with two long-haired neighbors observing.

The newcomer with a black nose, black arms and black feet says "ello der I's yore new neighbor."

The final panel has one neighbor commenting, "Every time one of them moves in the property value drops two rocks."

Principal Leigh Metteer said, "We're sorry it got through us and it has been used as an object lesson for the class. Steps have been taken that it will never happen again. We apologize to anyone who was offended."

Mrs. Ashe said she wasn't satisfied with Metteer's reply. "To me he's trying to cover and smother," she said.

"I'm just outraged," she said. The schools are supposed to teach people how to get along, she said.

Crocker Will Retain Employees

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Crocker National Bank says it will retain the 1,700 former employees of the defunct U.S. National Bank of San Diego in their present positions.

"It is our intention and desire to retain all former USNB employees at their present level of employment and to make available to them opportunities for advancement in Crocker's statewide system," board chairman Emmett G. Solomon said Wednesday in a letter to employees.

In what has been described as the biggest bank failure in American history, the San Diego bank was declared insolvent by the U.S. Comptroller of Currency on Oct. 18.

Trade Bill Given Nod By Kissinger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has agreed not to ask Congress to postpone consideration of sensitive trade legislation beyond the week of Nov. 12, Speaker Carl Albert said today.

Kissinger and other top administration officials had asked the House to delay consideration of the bill, which contains sensitive sections regarding the Soviet Union, because the Soviets and the United States are involved in negotiations over the Mideast crisis.

Albert said he talked with Kissinger last night and Kissinger "gave me his consent to bring it up at that time."

"I sold our house myself. But I'd never try to do it again!"

"You know how it is. You hear you can save money if you sell your home yourself. Well, I tried it, and learned a painful lesson the hard way.

I ran an ad and before I knew it, my family's life was turned upside-down. Our phone rang at all hours and total strangers appeared at the door demanding to be shown through. Our flowers were trampled and one day, as we came home, people were sitting on our doorstep.

I thought I had the house sold, but problems of the escrow-impounds, closing costs, title insurance, pre-payment penalty, termite work, eliminating deed encumbrances—delayed everything. (How can this stuff be so complicated!)

Then after all this, the buyer couldn't qualify for a loan. The house was finally sold, but while we were suffering by doing it ourselves, our neighbor's house across the street was sold for 15% more than ours. And it was essentially the same house! His sale was quick, smooth and professionally handled through a Realtor, who knew the true market value of the house. Sell your own home yourself? Take my advice and use a Realtor. You'll be glad you did."

MARIN COUNTY BOARD OF REALTORS

Open Space Acquisition Goes To A Vote Tuesday

Open space acquisition will be put to its first ballot test in Sonoma County Tuesday when county and Rohnert Park residents go to the polls.

Sonoma County voters will decide on a special tax, not to exceed a rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation, to finance the acquisition of open space. Passage requires a simple majority.

Rohnert Park residents will vote on $1 million in bonds to byy open land around the perimeter of the city. Passage requires a two-thirds majority.

The special tax may vary up to a maximum of 10 cents, as set annually by the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors, and will be in addition to the general county tax rate.

The countywide measure would raise approximately $600,000 per year in new taxes if the full 10-cent rate is applied. Funds would be used to buy development right to land so it can remain in permanent open space.

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors has said a special citizens committee would be appointed to recommend a priority list of what properties should be acquired.

Supervisors have said the money could be used to acquire scenic easements along with coastline or land along Highway 101 to assure wide corridors of greenery as buffers between the freeway and residential areas.

Rather than buying land outright, property could remain in agricultural use and would remain on the tax rolls.

The 10-cent tax rate has been estimated to cost the owner of a home with a market value of $30,000 an additional $7.56 per year in taxes.

The measure has been opposed by the Sonoma County Taxpayers' Association as an unfair method of assuring open space. Association President James H. Groom has urged funds be received from other sources, such as cigarette or sales tax rather than through additional property taxes.

The $1 million Rohnert Park bonds would be used to preserve a greenbelt atmosphere around the perimeter of the city.

Funds would be used for the outright purchase of land to assure permanent open space on the periphery of the city. The land could be leased to farmers with revenues used to offset debt service on the bonds.

The Rohnert Park City Council said the funds would allow the city to limit its ultimate size and to preserve a rural atmosphere around the city.

It has been estimated the bonds would cost the owner of a home with a market value of $30,000 an average of $23 for the first year and lesser amounts as the bonds approach the 30-year retirement date.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Medical Price Controls To Ease

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — John D. Twiname, executive director of the Cost of Living Council for the health field, yesterday said price controls will be eased for doctors and hospitals.

Twiname told an annual meeting of the California Hospital Association that the changes, which will go into effect Jan. 1, would permit doctors and hospitals to pass their cost increases on to patients.

Hospitals, he said, would be able to boost prices up to 7 per cent or 7 ½ per cent when they pay more for such items as fuel, utilities, food and wages. Doctors will be able to increase their incomes at an annual rate of 5½ per cent although they won't be permitted to raise fees for any particular service by a total of more than 10 per cent, he said.

Increase In Gas Cost Predicted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Gasoline Retailers Association's president says San Francisco Bay Area drivers may be paying nearly 50 cents a gallon by the end of the week for at least one premium gasoline.

Ray Ashwill, the president, noted yesterday that Phillips Petroleum is scheduled to raise its wholesale price by three cents a gallon.

Federal regulations permit retailers to pass along wholesale costs to customers and Phillips' premium presently costs 46.9 cents a gallon in Northern California.

Several Twisters Touch In Florida

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) —A string of tornadoes touched down in Florida yesterday, inflicting some minor injuries.

The twisters struck in the Tampa-St. Petersburg area last night. Earlier in the day in Shalimar, on the Florida Panhandle, some trees were uprooted and some minor injuries reported when a tornado touched down.

COSTUMED FOR BENEFIT, NOT HALLOWEEN

College of Marin coeds Sue Perry ("giant sandwich") and Debbie Farani (clown) walked the college campus yesterday in costume to advertise a benefit luncheon by scholastic honor society Alpha Gamma Sigma. The group put on an oriental luncheon at the campus complete with bellydancers and magician. The group's effort to raise funds for the Marin Diabetes Association and its scholarship fund went for naught, however, as the $1.50-per-plate luncheon only broke even, according to society spokesmen.

500,000 Acres Closed To Dune Buggies, Cycles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The federal government today closed 500,000 acres of California desert land to dune buggy drivers, motorcyclists and other recreational vehicle users, saying it is "imperative we create controls" because of ecological damage.

Restrictions were put on most of the rest of the desert.

J.R. Penny, California director of the federal Bureau of Land Management, announced the closures and other sweeping changes in activities allowed in the desert at a news conference yesterday.

The measures went into effect today.

Sixteen areas will be closed to all vehicle use, Penny said, making up about 3 per cent of all desert land.

Fourteen areas—six per cent of the desert, with 960,000 acres — will be open to unlimited recreational vehicle use, he said.

In the vast majority of the desert lands—7.68 million acres, more than 90 per cent of the total—motorcycles, dune buggies, four wheel drive vehicles and other recreational vehicles will be required to stay within 100 feet of roads and trails.

Penny said there are now more thn 1.2 million motorcycles, 500,000 four wheel drive vehicles and 5,000 dune buggies using the Southern California desert as a playground.

"Resources are being lost or damaged daily because of the tremendous unmanaged recreation use of the desert," he said. "It is imperative that we initiate controls."

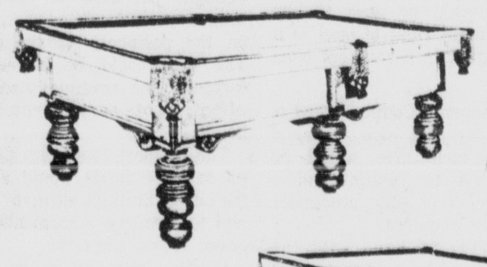

He also cited the danger to the sportsmen, estimating there were 140 deaths and 2,000 serious injuries to those enjoying themselves in the desert last year.

The rules will be changed as the bureau gains experience in enforcing them, he said.

A coalition of sportsmen's groups, representing 70,000 persons, oppose the bureau's regulations as uncalled for and restrictive, and has asked for a congressional investigation of the use of public lands for recreation by the public.

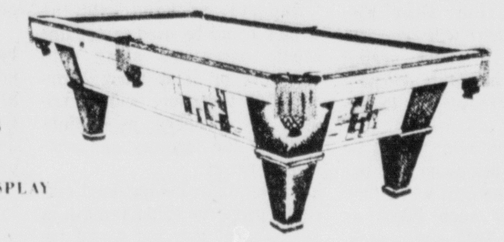

The BLM plans to employ 50 rangers to enforce the restrictions. Although the rangers have no legal authority to carry weapons or make arrests, Penny said, they could be deputized to do so by local authorities

Caution Urged On Cancer Drug Report

NEW YORK (UPI) — A cancer research institute urged caution yesterday in interpreting positive results in treating mice with the drug Laetrile.

The Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research said the effects on mice might have no bearing on use of Laetrile on humans.

Dr. Kanamatsu Sugiura of the institute had made a preliminary report based on a 10-month series of experiments involving a strain of mice that develops breast cancer. Although he found some positive findings that the drug inhibits the spread of cancer in mouse lungs, Sloan-Kettering authorities told UPI the unpublished report is not complete.

Much more experimentation is needed to verify preliminary evidence that the drug could have some effect in arresting the growth of cancer in humans, the authorities said.

A spokesman for Dr. Robert Good, president of the institute, said Sugiura was only one member of a team working with Laetrile.

The drug has been the subject of controversy for more than 25 years. Its manufacture and use is prohibited in the United States.

"Laetriles are of no value in the diagnosis, treatment, alleviation or cure of cancer," the California Department of Public Health has said.

UN To Tackle Troop Allotments In Mideast

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said the Security Council would attempt to hammer out an agreement today on the use of African and Asian troops in the Middle East peace-keeping force.

The sources said council delegates would meet in a closed-door session to work out the final details for the prospective 7,000-man UN force to supervise the nine-day-old truce.

The General Assembly yesterday received UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim's request for $30 million to finance the force's initial six months. It referred the request to the 135-nation administrative and budgetary committee.

Albania joined China yesterday in refusing to pay the force's costs. Albanian Deputy Foreign Minister Reiz Malile said the force had been set up on the initiative of the United States and the Soviet Union without consulting the small powers.

Waldheim proposed the $30 million be considered part of the regular UN budget. China's defaulting would leave a gap of $1.65 million. Albania's assessed share would be $60,000.

Although the Soviet Union was adamant in its insistence on equitable geographic representation in the emergency force, other members hoped the question of including forces from the Communist Warsaw Pact could be shelved until the organization was virtually complete.

The sources said Poland, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria all have offered troop contingents with Moscow's blessing.

Ecology Of Snakes Will Be Discussed

The ecology and activities of the snakes of Marin County will be discussed at a free public program at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday at the Boyd Museum of Science in San Rafael.

The naturalists will have live, harmless snakes to illustrate their talk.

Bus Firm Files Big Damage Suit

Marin Transit Systems, the black-owned bus company that once served much of Southern and West Marin, charged yesterday it was forced out of business by the Marin County Transit District.

The bus line filed a $1.3 million suit in Marin Superior Court against the transit district, alleging breach of contract.

The transit district last December reduced its subsidy to the Marin City-based bus company from $180,000 annually to $60,000.

The suit, filed by Novato attorney Thomas T. Storer, contends the original transit district-bus firm contract obligated both parties to use their "best efforts" to renew the contract in a form acceptable to the bus company.

But the transit district did no such thing, thus violating the original contract, according to the suit.

As a result of the "arbitrary" reduction of payments, the bus company went out of business and cannot pay $200,000 in debts, the suit contends.

Woman Injured In Auto Accident

A 25-year-old Forest Knolls woman was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with head injuries received when her car went off the road and plunged down an embankment early today.

The California Highway Patrol said Patricia Zecchine, of 35 Linares, was eastbound on Forest Road in Forest Knolls about 2:20 a.m. Officers said she told them she swerved to avoid another car and went off the road.

$89.50 (one way (tax included))

To take a TWA Demand Scheduled* Flight, you have to book 90 days in advance. So book now.

It may seem a little early to talk about March. But one of the few restrictions with this terrific low fare is that you do have to plan ahead: March 1 must be booked by December 2. And only TWA offers you this low fare now for travel after March 1. (Some February departures are still available).

Here's how it works: At least 90 days before departure you reserve one of our available departure dates to New York or Boston and put $20 down for a one-way trip ($40 for round trip). The deposit is refundable up to 90 days before departure. Sixty days before you depart we give you the flight number, departure and arrival times, and you pay the balance in full.

Your flight may or may not be a non-stop flight, and there are no stopovers allowed. Flights are scheduled according to demand. TWA guarantees you will fly on the day you have reserved. You'll fly on an all-Coach configured plane and be served a hot meal or snack depending on the time of departure.

Demand Scheduled flights leave on Tuesday and Thursday and the one-way fare is $89.50 ($179 round trip).

You'll save up to 48% off the regular Coach fare. And you can stay as long as you want. You can charge your entire trip on TWA's Getaway* Card which is the most widely held personal airline credit card in the world. The Getaway Card is accepted at hotels, restaurants, car rental companies and shops all over the USA.

TWA's Demand Scheduled flights save you up to $169 round trip. That can go towards your hotel, or dinners, or theaters or something. You shouldn't spend it on your plane fare if you don't have to. And with TWA you don't have to.

Getaway

TWA is what travel should be to New York and Boston.

For more information call your Travel Agent or TWA at 863-2120

Demand Scheduled flights depart from San Francisco International Airport.

Fund Lack Is School Vote Issue

A possible future fund shortage in the Bolinas-Stinson School District surfaced as the only real issue in a school district board election which takes place Tuesday.

The district's 1,250 voters have their choice among four Bolinas residents hoping to fill one year of the unexpired term of Charles Hancock, who recently resigned from the board.

Candidates include Conrad Golich, industrial deisgner; Malcolm M. Ponder, assistant treasurer of a corporation; Pierre Mornell, psychiatrist and writer, and Sam Birenbaum, attorney.

Dr. Mornell and Ponder both said that if elected they would work on possible future financial problems. Last spring district voters vetoed an election measure to increase their school tax rate by 50 cents. After the election, district officials predicted eventual revenue shortages.

Golich said he would concentrate on starting some new district programs, including evening adult education courses.

Birenbaum could not be reached to comment on his candidacy.

Ponder, 38, has lived in the district for one year on Cedar Road in Bolinas.

He received a bachelor's degree from San Francisco State College and a master's degree from the University of Michigan.

He is assistant treasurer of Marcona Corp. in San Francisco and is a former assistant vice president in the national division of the Bank of America.

Mornell, 38, is a psychiatrist who divides his time between writing and a practice in Mill Valley.

He and family have lived for three years in Bolinas and reside on Horseshoe Hill Road.

He studied at the University of California-Los Angeles, the University of California Medical Center-San Francisco and the Langley-Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute in San Francisco. Before coming to Bolinas in 1970, he was an assistant professor of psychiatry at the UC Medical Center in San Francisco.

Golich, 39, is a self-employed industrial designer, who has lived in the school district for two years.

He received a mechanical engineering degree from the Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago and formerly worked as a systems engineer in the aerospace industry.

He said he had done some substitute teaching and had helped found a free university and cooperative grade school in San Francisco.

'Wait, See' Reply On Alioto Taxes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Democratic gubernatorial contenders expressed reluctance yesterday to assess the political impact of disclosure that San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto paid no income tax for 1971.

Alioto, a formally announced Democratic candidate for governor, said $173,000 in legal fees he paid in connection with his libel case against Look Magazine and to defend himself against fee-splitting charges in Washington state wiped out his 1971 income of $73,000.

Gov. Ronald Reagan, who paid no state income tax for 1970 because of what he called "business reverses," was asked by newsmen in Los Angeles whether the disclosure would damage Alioto politically.

"I don't think it should," Reagan replied. "I have to assume if he didn't pay any income tax for 1971, he didn't owe any."

Democratic contenders for governor surveyed by UPI to assess the impact of the disclosure that Alioto paid no federal or state income taxes for 1971 adopted a "wait and see" stance.

"I don't know," said Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti. "The governor seems to have recovered from the fact that he didn't pay any (state income) taxes. I don't think anybody likes to hear that somebody who has got a lot of money doesn't pay any taxes."

Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco likewise demurred but said the situation "points up all the more for all public officials to lay across the table for public view all of their income on a continuing basis so that people will know what their financial status is."

Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., declined comment.

State Democratic Chairmwn John Burton, a San Francisco assemblyman who must play a neutral role in the party primary, also took a wait and see posture on "what political effect it will have, if any."

Alioto sued the now-defunct Look Magazine because of an article which hinted he was linked with the Mafia. Two trials resulted in hung juries but the second jury found the article libelous. However, it said there was no malice on the part of Look and did not render a money award.

In Washington, Alioto was charged with illegally kicking back $812,814 of a $2.3 million fee to the state attorney general after winning a $16.2 million antitrust settlement for utility districts. Criminal and civil trials ended in his exoneration.

Open Space Bond Issues Face Service Area Votes

Residents of Santa Margarita-Las Gallinas County Service Area No. 18 and County Service Area No. 17, made up of portions of Larkspur, Greenbrae and Kentfield, will vote Tuesday on bond issues to finance the purchase of open space.

Facing voters of the newly formed Santa Margarita-Las Gallinas County Service Area will be a $500,000 bond issue.

The issue, listed as Measure C on the ballot, requires a two-thirds favorable vote and would finance acquisition of some 450 acres on San Pedro Ridge overlooking Santa Venetia.

Tuesday's bond measure was first proposed in January by Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere and a group of Santa Venetia residents opposed to plans for a massive townhouse project on the 250-acre Fierman property.

The townhouse project, reduced in size from 1,100 units to 450, has been placed on ice pending the outcome of the election.

Supporters of the bond say it would mean an average tax rate of 22 cents per $100 assessed valuation over the next 20 years. Broken down, that means about 83 cents per month for the owner of a $25,000 home and $1.52 per month for a $40,000 home.

Besides the Fierman property, located behind the Rafael Convalescent Hospital on North San Pedro Road, area residents have proposed buying an additional 250 acres on the forested ridge.

There is no organized opposition to the bond measure.

The area has 2,813 registered voters, according to the county elections office.

In County Service Area 17, made up of part of Larkspur, Greenbrae and Kentfield, 7,272 registered voters are asked to approve an $850,000 bond issue for purchase of park land.

Approval of Measure B would authorize the purchase of a 27.5 acre site between Marin Catholic High School and Corte Madera Creek, across from Marin General Hospital. A two-third vote is needed for approval.

Argument for the bond, submitted by Committee for a Creekside Park, Neil M. Park, chairman, claims that by paying about $8.76 per year for a $40,000 home, voters can "preserve a marsh, create a community park and make a neighborhood more desirable."

No argument against the bond was submitted for the sample ballot.

Voters will also be asked in Measure J to authorize a 10 cent maximum tax rate for the district to pay for future maintenance of the park.

Depression Day Tale About Meat

NEW YORK (UPI) — The current tight meat situation reminds of a story carried over from the tight-belt days of the Depression.

The story is told in the American Spice Trade Association's latest newsletter. This woman was asked what her family's favorite dish was. She replied they ate mostly "potatoes and point" ... lots of potatoes but so little meat you could only point at it.

DeMolay To Be Given High Degree

Bradley Max Breithaupt of Kentfield will be invested with the Chevalier degree at 8 p.m., Saturday at the Fairfax Masonic Temple in Larkspur, by the Ross Valley Order of DeMolay chapter.

Breithaupt, 20, has been a member of DeMolay since 1967. He served as master councilor of Ross Valley chapter in 1971, earning the International Supreme Council, Order of DeMolay Past Master Councilor Meritorious Service Award.

He is a representative DeMolay, a Blue Honor Key holder, member of Knighthood, past district governor of the United Marin DeMolay Council and a member of Ross Valley Chapter's championship basketball team.

Last year he served as master councilor of the Redwood Empire Division of the Order of DeMolay. He traveled 30,000 miles visiting DeMolay chapters from Mill Valley to the Oregon border.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Breithaupt of 6 Berens Drive, Kentfield. He is a graduate of Redwood High School and attends College of Marin.

Lennon Fights Deportation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Beatle John Lennon, who has been ordered deported because is not a U.S. citizen and government agents found out he was previously convicted in Great Britain of possessing marijuana, is trying to delay a decision on the order.

Lennon's attorney yesterday asked the Board of Immigration Appeals to wait until a U.S. District Court rules on Lennon's suit charging illegal government electronic surveillance.

Lennon's attorney said federal agents used bugging and wiretaps against Lennon and his wife, Yoko Ono in New York.

Park Shut Down For The Winter

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) —Yellowstone National Park has buttoned up for the winter, although some roads will remain open until snow makes them unsafe.

Superintendent Jack Anderson said yesterday anyone planning a visit to Yellowstone should have tire chains in his car in case of a sudden storm.

The only facilities available in Yellowstone will be selfservice gasoline pumps at Old Faithful, West Thumb, Fishing Bridge, Canyon and Tower Junction.

SOUP'S ON — Mrs. H. L. Wilkes (center) serves up some of her famous home-style Southern cooking to a table of some of the 250-or-so guests she feeds daily in her boarding house in Savannah, Ga. Mrs. Wilkes started feeding a few regular boarders and friends during World War II but public demand for her cuisine led to opening the boarding house to the public.

Palme Shakes Up Swedish Cabinet

STOCKHOLM (UPI) —Prime Minister Olof Palme ordered the biggest government shakeup in Sweden since World War II yesterday and called his new administration "a team of comrades."

Palme said he reshuffled one-third of his Social Democratic government, which was reelected in September with only half the seats in parliament, relying heavily on the support of the Communists.

"I see the government as a team of comrades," Palme told a news conference. "It is very important that this team of comrades is well welded together."

He said the shakeup was the biggest he could order while still keeping his government intact. "At this stage about one third of the government is renewed and that is very much," he said. "So much at the same time has not happened during the whole post-war period as far as I know and that is about as much as you can take and still keep the welding together."

Palme said the key to the reshuffle was his concern with Sweden's unemployment, high for this welfare state but considered low elsewhere in Europe.

In response, he said the Interior Ministry would be split into two divisions—labor and housing. He assigned the popular agriculture minister, Ingemund Bengtsson, to take charge of the labor section.

The reshuffle cost the jobs of Foreign Minister Krister Wickman who resigned Tuesday before Palme's announcement, Disarmament Minister Alva Myrdal who was a Nobel Peace Prize candidate this year and three ministers without portfolio.

Defense Minister Sven Andersson, 63, was appointed foreign minister. Andersson, who had been defense minister for 16 years, is from the older, more conservative wing of the Social Democrat party.

A Foreign Ministry source said the shakeup would probably not have any effect on Swedish-American relations, which have been icy since Palme denounced President Nixon for the Christmas bombing of North Vietnam last year.

4,200 Jews Are Allowed To Leave

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet authorities allowed a record number of 4,200 Jews to emigrate to Israel in October despite the Middle East war, diplomatic sources said today.

They said the previous record was set in September when 3,650 Jews were given exit visas.

FAMOUS BOARDING HOUSE

Good Food Turns Mrs. Wilkes Into Reluctant Restaurateur

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI) —A meal at Mrs. Wilkes' Boarding House is reminiscent of dinner at grandma's, with heaping platters of fried chicken and bowls of steaming vegetables on the table.

There is no sign marking the small ground-level room of the boarding house, though about 250 guests are served at each meal.

Each day, at precisely 11:30 a.m., Mr. Wilkes rings the dinner bell, and the guests take their places at the five large wooden tables. Wilkes, a retired railroad man, says grace, and the food is served.

Mrs. Wilkes pads about in soft white shoes, fussing over the patrons, offering hot bread and more iced tea.

It is a community affair, with young businessmen in suits sitting by young men with sandals and shoulder-length hair. Doctors and plumbers, lawyers and policemen sit side-by-side discussing politics and the weather. Middle-aged women bemoan the weight they are gaining while eating cherry cobbler and lemon pie.

There is a "No Smoking" sign on the wall and there are no ashtrays on the tables. Mrs. Wilkes says smokers take up places at the table longer than necessary, and may disturb other people who are just sitting down to eat.

Mrs. H. L. Wilkes opened her boarding house during World War II, and at that time she served her home-style Southern cooking to just a few regular boarders and friends.

As the word spread, more and more people came to dine, and about 10 years ago the public persuaded her to serve meals to anyone who dropped in. Now inflation has forced her to raise her prices from $1.75 to $2.50.

Esquire wrote a feature piece about her boarding house in 1971, and last December David Brinkley made her a national figure by putting her on the evening news.

Mrs. Wilkes, who is probably in her early 60s but refuses to tell her age, doesn't like what the publicity has done to her business.

"Not too many of the Savannah people can get in any more," she lamented. "They've been crowded out by the tourists.

"And I get real tired of people making over me all the time, saying, 'Are you Mrs. Wilkes?'

Bolinas Sewer Plant Main Issue

Proceeding with plans to build the long-delayed waste disposal system that will end pollution of Bolinas Lagoon by faulty septic tanks concerns three candidates for two seats on the Stinson Beach County Water District board in Tuesday's election. There are 452 registered voters in the district.

Seeking reelection are incumbents Robert L. Langsdale, 50, and Ralph W. Sigmund, 74. They are being challenged by Richard W. Beban, 25, a first-time candidate for the board.

Plans for the system have gone through several revisions over the years. The current project is for a secondary treatment plant at Stinson Gulch behind the alder grove about two miles north of Stinson Beach. It involves sewering only the Calles and Patio areas and the downtown business and residential sections. Cost has been estimated at between $500,000 and $900,000. There will be about a $1.5 million price tag if the entire Stinson area is sewered, which may be required by antipollution agencies.

RICHARD W. BEBAN
Freelance writer

The board also is considering buying the Stinson Beach Water Co. The firm owns the land on which the sewer treatment facility is planned. The parcel also has been marked for purchase by the Golden Gate National Recreation Area and directors believe they may be able to lease it from the federal government in lieu of buying it.

Beban, a freelance writer and columnist for the Pacific Sun, believes the district must complete the sewer system, but fears the high price tag will hike property taxes and rents, the effect of which would be to drive out elderly and low-income families especially in the old town area. He says he would seek to prevent that by keeping the price as low as possible.

"The district, like the Marin Municipal Water District, will determine how much water is dispensed and the sewer system will determine property values that will pave the way for larger development of old town with apartments rather than single-family homes," he said. "We have a nice mix here of older people and young who have managed to live together. I would like to keep it that way."

Beban, a resident of Stinson Beach for 18 months, resigned as public information officer for the district on deciding to run for the board.

Langsdale, head of a San Francisco industrial and commercial real estate sales and development firm, said he will continue to do his best to get a sewage system approved with the greatest amount of grant monies from government agencies, thus keeping the local burden of finance at a minimum.

"Our main thrust must be to get a system built after years of planning and engineering," he said. "Although it is not realistic to expect that we will get the maximum 87.5 per cent financing from the federal government, I will try to get as close to that as possible."

Langsdale has been a director seven years. Originally appointed, he was elected to the post in 1969.

Sigmund — who described himself as retired but declined to say what his occupation had been — said he would continue with what the district has been doing for the last 10 years — trying to get a sewer system built. He declined to discuss the particulars involved in the district effort.

He did say, however, that three new board members were seated as a result of the last election and that he thinks it "inadvisable to bring in any new board members now."

Sigmund was elected in 1969 following his appointment to the board two years earlier.

Author To Speak About His Book

Material from his book, "Escape from Childhood" will be presented by John Holt, author of books about children and education, at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 8 at the College of Marin's Fine Arts Theater.

In his latest book, Holt says that shutting off young from adult life and society is a great mistake and cause of many serious problems. The program is presented by the College's Concert-Lecture Series in cooperation with the Marin Association for Mental Health.

Stepchild Given Right To Sue

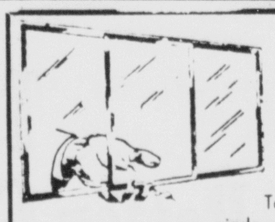

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California's Supreme Court has ruled that in some cases a stepchild may sue for the wrongful death of a step parent.

Such a suit may be filed, the court ruled yesterday, where a step parent has treated the stepchild in every way as a natural child.

The ruling concerned Elizabeth Steed, 10, of San Diego on whose behalf a suit was filed against Imperial Airlines in the death of Ronald Steed, who died in a plane crash in 1968.

Introducing the 1974 Volkswagen.

Our philosophy: Total Transportation.

This year buying a Volkswagen means buying a new idea as well as a new car.

The idea is called Volkswagen's Owners Security Blanket. It's not just a warranty because warranties don't go far enough. It's a commitment to our owners long after they've signed on the dotted line.

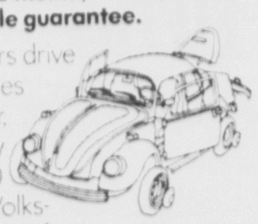

Nobody in the car business has any plan like it. Nobody seems to care enough. Or do enough. Nobody, except Volkswagen.

We like to think of it as Total Transportation because you deserve a car you can count on 365 days a year. And we believe you shouldn't have to keep paying to get what you deserve.

From the minute you drive away in your '74 Volkswagen you'll be secure knowing you've got the world's most advanced new car coverage plan riding with you.

Take a little time to read this and you'll find out how Volkswagen has changed the reasons for buying a new car. You'll also discover that what's behind our Owners Security Blanket is as exciting as what's under it.

Our 12 month/ 20,000 mile guarantee.

Most car owners drive about 14,000 miles during the first year. So what earthly good is a 12,000 mile guarantee? Volkswagen's coverage is for 20,000 miles—most car companies don't come near that.

This is our guarantee, in plain English: "If you maintain and service your 1974 Volkswagen as prescribed in the Volkswagen Maintenance Schedule, any factory parts found to be defective in material or workmanship within 12 months or 20,000 miles, whichever comes first (except filters and tires), will be repaired or replaced free of charge by any U.S. or Canadian VW dealer.

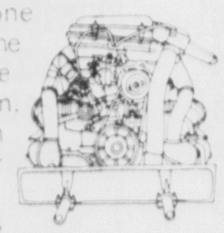

We guarantee against more than just defective parts.

Volkswagen's Owners Security Blanket goes far beyond just guaranteeing against defects. Most car companies won't replace a windshield wiper if it wears out. We will. They won't replace a lightbulb. We will.

Take things like brake pads and linings. As long as you have them adjusted when your Maintenance Schedule says so, we'll replace them free if they wear out. Same thing goes for clutch linings and batteries.

And spark plugs and points? We change them free at 12,000 miles and we'll honor that no matter how long it takes you to go that distance. This is unheard of in the auto industry.

24 months/24,000 miles.

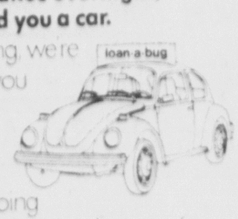

We've gone one step further with the insides of our engine and transmission. We guarantee them for two years or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first. Of course we don't cover defects caused by lack of maintenance or abuse.

We guarantee our repairs.

When you're running out of warranty, you're still not out of luck. We'll make the repair free and guarantee the parts and workmanship for an additional 6 months or 6,000 miles.

If the repair takes overnight, we'll lend you a car.

Moving right along, we're committed to keep you moving. So if you're a qualified owner and you find that a warranty repair is going to take overnight, we'll lend you a free car by appointment, for as long as the repair takes.

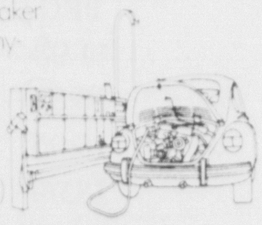

And we haven't forgotten owners of older VWs. If your car needs a repair and you need a car, we'll rent you one at a nominal price.)

Express care.

How many times have you heard of waiting two weeks before you can get a headlight fixed? Not at Volkswagen. With Express Care if we can fix something in less than 30 minutes, we'll do it while you wait. No appointment needed for these little repairs, because who needs aggravation?

3 free computer check-ups.

No other car maker in the world has anything like Computer Analysis. (They probably will some day in the future.)

Every 1974 Volkswagen can be plugged into a computer and out comes a written analysis of over 50 vital functions. Everything from your engine compression down to your battery voltage.

Computer Analysis can spot things that even a master mechanic might not see. So we can fix these things while you're still covered by our Owners Security Blanket.

We're in this together.

We made the car. You own the car. So we're in this together. As long as you maintain your new Volkswagen properly we'll do most of the worrying for you.

That's what Volkswagen's Owners Security Blanket is all about—once you're a Volkswagen Owner, we're not going to leave you out in the cold.

SPOTS A BLAZE FLAREUP

A Los Angeles County Fire Department helicopter makes a drop on a flareup in the worst brush fire of the season that scorched 2,500 acres. The blaze, reported under control today, is believed to have been started by an incendiarist. Although hundreds of homeowners were forced to evacuate their homes, no homes were destroyed. Public Funds Said Spent On Tax Limit Opposition

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Four Republican assemblymen have accused Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of using an estimated $250,000 in taxpayers' funds to campaign against Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax ceiling initiative.

Moretti denounced the charges as "another fraudulent attempt to divert attention from the drastic impact Prop. 1 will have on the average taxpayer in California.

"It's amazing how silly the proponents can get," said Moretti, D-Van Nuys.

The four GOP lawmakers said yesterday Moretti used state funds for mailings, travel, legislative aides' salaries and Assembly committee hearings against Prop. 1.

They declared in a statement they did not have access to Moretti's files and could only estimated the amount involved.

The four are Dixon Arnett of Redwood City, Bill Bond of Long Beach, Mike Antonovich of Los Angeles and William A. Craven of Oceanside. All support Reagan's initiative.

In a letter to Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., they said Moretti has failed to file a campaign spending statement as required by law on the expenditure of state funds to defeat Prop. 1.

Arnett said the idea of writing the letter to Brown "grew out" of a conversation with Tim Cole, a member of Reagan's staff.

In a related development, Hugh Burns, former state Senate President Pro Tem, filed a lawsuit seeking a half to alleged attempts by Moretti and Brown to conceal the expenditure of campaign funds.

The suit by Burns, who was appointed by Reagan as chairman of the Alcoholic Beverage Appeals Control Board, was announced after Moretti released a list of 25 Assembly employes who are working either full or part-time against Prop. 1.

Moretti's aides have defended the use of the employes and other legislative resources, declaring there was nothing improper or illegal about the practice.

Informer Says Lie Was Forced

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A former police informer who last month said she knew of a police "set up" to frame the president of the United Prisoners Union now says radicals forced her to lie about that charge.

Jessica Vodquen, 22, said members of the Maoist Venceremos organization and the UPU kidnaped her and held her for several days in a Los Altos Hills cabin before her escape.

The Prisoner Union denies her story.

Miss Vodquen told a Sept. 11 news conference that she had been told by police officials that Wilbert "Popeye" Jackson, 43, president of the UPU, would be set up for arrest.

In August, Jackson was picked up on heroin charges and will go on trial next Monday.

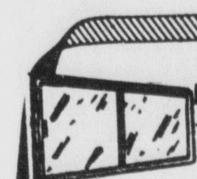

Miss Vodquen turned herself in to police last week after spending time in San Diego and Mexico. Sources said she returned because she felt she had run out on patrolman Alexander Jason, her police contact.

Miss Vodquen said she was coached before the news conference. "They rehearsed me over and over," she said. "People kept drilling me."

She said she was taken captive because Jackson's supporters at a meeting in San Francisco, demanded she make the charges against police.

"My life was threatened if I didn't make them," she is quoted as telling police.

Sources refused to disclose her present whereabouts .

A Mill Valley youth was hurt last night when the car in which he was riding rolled down an embankment eastbound on Panoramic Highway just east of Muir Woods.

Roger J. Malek, 17, of 1028 Trillium Lane, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a head injury, facial cuts and a broken collarbone.

The California Highway Patrol said an eastbound auto operated by Kimball O. Miller, 17, of 574 Panoramic, went out of control on a curve about 10 p.m., ran onto the shoulder and rolled down the embankment. Malek was thrown from the vehicle.

VIETNAM WAR GONE AND ALSO FORGOTTEN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Vietnam war has slipped so quickly from the mind of the House of Representatives that the Pentagon has had to remind a House committee to legislate against it.

The Pentagon phoned the committee to say the committee had forgotten to include in a defense weapons bill an amendment prohibiting the reintroduction of American forces into Indochina, it was disclosed yesterday.

"We almost blew that one," a committee staffer said. "It's embarrassing. It (the amendment) apparently fell through the cracks as we were clipping and pasting all the different amendments."

Four Vacancies Filled On County Grand Jury

Two men and two women have been named to the Marin County Grand Jury for 1973-74 to replace two men and two women who resigned from the original panel.

The recent appointees are Paul A. Brusseau of Novato, former president of the Marin County Employees Association; George M. Cooley of Novato, a retired Army colonel; Georgette H. Vilas of Nicasio, former school district trustee, and Adelaide P. Wilson of Fairfax, Fairfax Planning Commission member and former city councilman.

They replace Francis Fogarty, Walter Freitas, Katharine Kirk and Barbara Padilla.

Jury Foreman F. Charles Ruegg has assigned Brusseau to the panel's education, public works and municipalities-districts-commissions committees; Cooley to the environmental, law enforcement and public works committees; Mrs. Vilas to the education, health-hospitals-welfare-human rights and municipalities-districts-commissions committees, and Mrs. Wilson to the law enforcement, audit-finance-county offices and health-hospital-welfare-human rights committees.

Agnew Pays Fine On Tax Charge

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A $10,000 personal check from former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was received at the U. S. attorney's office in Baltimore today to pay a fine imposed on him for income tax evasion.

U.S. Attorney George Beall said he had received the check in yesterday's mail and it was turned over to the clerk of courts in Baltimore.

The check was dated Oct. 28.

Agnew pleaded no contest to a charge of income tax evasion in Baltimore federal court Oct. 10 and was fined $10,000 and put on three year probation. He resigned the vice presidency the same day.

Folksinger Will Perform At Church

Folksinger Betsy Chapman, who originated the Folk Mass in Marin in the 1960s, will perform at 8 p.m. Nov. 17 at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo.

Miss Chapman, who has recorded an album, "A Gift of Love," will sing many of her own compositions. Proceeds from the concert will go to St. Anselm's music fund.

Agnew Reportedly Fired Off Memos

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Spiro T. Agnew complained three times to former Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst that a federal grand jury in Baltimore was seeking to embarrass him, the Washington Post said today.

Because of the complaints, federal officials considered charging Agnew with obstruction of justice but later decided to drop the matter, the newspaper said.

Quoting informed sources, the Post said Agnew complained three times to Kleindienst in February about the grand jury investigating political corruption in Maryland.

Kleindienst then notified George Beall, the U.S. attorney for the Baltimore area.

Beall, the Post said, at the time had no evidence linking Agnew with any corruption in Maryland but it was this grand jury that in the summer began investigating reports that Agnew received political kickbacks while Maryland governor and vice president.

Because of the investigation, Agnew resigned the vice presidency Oct. 10 and pleaded no contest to one count of tax evasion.

According to the Post, Agnew complained to Kleindienst that the grand jury investigation might be politically motivated and designed to create adverse publicity about the vice president.

RING AROUND THE RIVER

The Sembonmatsu Ohashi Bridge, using an unusual approach design, opened yesterday downstream of Kizugawa River in Osaka, Japan. The bridge connects the industrial area of western Osaka with the south and is more than 1,000 feet long and 120 feet above the mean water level.

Reagan Talking Like A Hopeful

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan is acting and talking more like the potential presidential candidate that he is as next Tuesday's election approaches on his first-in-the-nation tax limitation plan.

The 1976 race for the Republican presidential nomination — which Reagan currently leads by a substantial margin in the Gallup Poll — no longer seems to be a forbidden topic as the governor aggressively campaigns for his tax ceiling proposal.

"You can sound a cry that will be heard all the way to those puzzle palaces on the Potomac," Reagan told 600 businessmen and civic leaders in urging support for his tax limitation yesterday at a Town Hall luncheon.

The comment was reminiscent of Reagan's familiar "We can light a prairie fire" speech which he delivered repeatedly before seeking the GOP nomination in 1968 that ultimately went to Richard Nixon.

Reagan's political advisers now agree the governor was too coy about his White House aspirations in 1968 and started his campaign too late to be effective. They are determined not to make the same mistake again.

Opponents of Reagan's plan —which would limit overall state taxes to a gradually declining percentage of total California personal income — claim the governor created the scheme as a springboard to the presidency.

Answering that criticism head-on yesterday during a campaign day in which he posed for pictures with children and lingered long to chat with studio technicians, Reagan told a television interviewer:

"I find it kind of frustrating —a bunch of fellows who are running for governor next year are trying to say somebody shouldn't vote for a tax cut for themselves because I might be running for the presidency three years from now.

"It's also kind of funny the same fellows who are saying that Proposition 1 would destroy the state of California are saying in the next breath a fellow could run for the presidency three years from now on having destroyed the State of California." It doesn't make much sense."

Reagan told the Town Hall luncheon his tax limitation could work for the entire nation.

"If we find the answer (to higher taxes) in California," he said, "maybe the idea will spread, just as our welfare reforms spread and now are being adopted across the country."

University of Chicago economist Milton Friedman, who helped draft Reagan's plan, told the audience Proposition 1 "is the only sign of hope I see anywhere in this country" for controlling taxes.

Asked at a joint news conference with Reagan whether he thought the California conservative would make a good president, Friedman replied:

"I'd be delighted to see Gov. Reagan become president."

Reagan then placed both his hands on Friedman's shoulders, smiled broadly and told newsmen, "I hope he says that in other states."

Bill Seeks Allocation For Energy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United States might be able to turn to sizzling rocks underground as one energy source of the future, Rep. Mike McCormack, D-Wash., said today.

He introduced a bill for federal money to be spent on seeing if that nonconventional source is feasible.

He got 24 cosponsors for the legislation, calling for $80 million in six years of research leading to a demonstration of the potential.

As it is now, the nation uses natural steam and hot water from underground for energy — largely on the West Coast.

But MCormack said there are "two unexplored types of geothermal resources —dry rock and geopressured zones."

The possibility is that water could be pumped through a hole to the hot rock and then pumped back out as steam or super-hot water, he said.

The water already in some zones might have natural gas dissolved in it, and that would be another energy source, McCormack said.

Ford's Confirmation Hearing Opens

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Gerald R. Ford told the historic congressional hearings into his vice presidential nomination today that he is "not a saint" and that he welcomes the closest scrutiny of his fitness for the job.

Ford, 60, the Republican House minority leader from Michigan, was leadoff witness as the Senate Rules Committee opened hearings into his nomination to succeed Spiro T. Agnew as the 40th vice president of the United States.

"I recognize and welcome the fact that this committee, as it should will inquire fully into my worthiness to have the trust of the nation," Ford said in a prepared opening statement.

"I am not a saint and I'm sure I have done things I might have done better or differently or not at all," Ford said. "But I believe and hope that I have been honest with myself and with others."

"Through my testimony it is my intention to replace misunderstanding with understanding and to substitute truth for untruths."

Ford also defended his consistent support of the Nixon administration and said "for that I have no apologies. If being for his President and for his party and for its candidates disqualified anyone from becoming vice president, then we'll never have another Truman, Nixon, Johnson or Humphrey."

There were only small clouds on Ford's horizon amid indications he would win congressional approval by the end of this month, but Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the committee, made it clear on the eve of the hearings that his panel will scrutinize the Ford nomination closely.

"I have seen things that will certainly raise questions that we will bring out with Mr. Ford," Cannon told newsmen yesterday after reviewing FBI investigative reports.

Included in those "things," said Cannon, are allegations that Ford traded olitical favors in exchange for political contributions, charges made in a book "The Washington Pay-Off" by former lobbyist Robert N. Winter-Berger.

Cannon described Ford in his opening remarks as "a political animal and I am sure Gerry Ford will be the first to admit it." Ford smiled at the reference.

"Some say that we should challenge Mr. Ford's unbroken record of favoring big business during his years in the House and that his voting record demonstrates an indifference to the needs of the disadvantaged. That is not relevant to the question of confirmation," Cannon noted.

"It has been suggested that Mr. Ford's nomination be held hostage to the domestic warfare now under way. I speak for the committee when I say we can see no merit but only danger in such an approach. The nation needs a healer," the chairman said.

Ford has branded the Winter-Berger allegations "categorically untrue," but Cannon said the same allegations were made by persons other than Winter-Berger. Cannon would not elaborate.

Other issues Cannon said Ford would be questioned on include his views on a new Watergate prosecutor, the latest developments in the Nixon tapes controversy, Ford's own efforts in 1970 to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, and Ford's position on executive privilege.

Ford said after his nomination by President Nixon on Oct. 12 that he decided to open "every record relating to my public service, my personal finances, my health and the health of my wife and children."

Ford said the records he ordered open to investigators included "all of my campaign finances, office and personal bank accounts—even our children's savings accounts—my income tax records and confidential financial disclosure reports required by House rules."

He traced his friendship with Nixon back to 1948, his first year in Congress, when Nixon was a second-term House member. Ford said "he (Nixon) has always been truthful to me, as have my good friends in the Congress."

"Truth is the glue that holds government together, and not only government, but civilization itself," Ford added. He made no reference to the current missing Watergate tapes controversy in his prepared remarks.

Three Seek Marinwood Board Seats

Incumbents Donald A. Duerr and Ellis D. Jaquette are being challenged by Kenneth R. Katz, chairman of the Marinwood Fire Commission.

There are 2,406 registered voters eligible to cast ballots.

Katz, saying that Marinwood has been plagued by a continuing wave of vandalism in recent months, criticized the district board for "lack of action" on the matter.

Neither Ellis nor Jaquette, however, list vandalism as a major issue in the district. Instead, the two incumbents have called open space acquisiton a major concern, urging completion of a plan to buy 350 acres of open land with funds from a $600,000 bond issue approved last January.

Duerr, 51, elected to the board in 1966 and since reelected, is business manager for San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. He is a former city manager of Sausalito and a former member of the fire commission.

Duerr, who lives at 386 Johnstone Drive, lists an "aggressive" open space acquisition program, wise management of finances and use of district power to promote good planning as outstanding issues.

Jaquette, 31, first elected in 1969, is an electrical engineer for a San Francisco corporation. He is a member of the Marinwood Association and active in Boy Scouts.

Jaquette, who lives at 505 Quietwood Drive, headed board efforts that resulted in the successful openspace bond issue in January. He lists completion of the open space purchase effort, expanding district services to Upper Lucas Valley, and determining the form of future government in Lucas Valley as major issues.

Katz, 35, was appointed to the fire commission in 1969. He is a social worker-counselor at the Golden Gate Regional Center for the mentally retarded in San Rafael. He previously worked as a psychiatric social worker at Sonoma State Hospital.

Katz, who lives at 872 Greenberry Lane, lists vandalism and burglary as the major issues in the district, saying the board has assumed an "If we leave it alone, it'll go away" attitude toward the problem.

He said the board should explore the possibility of a private security patrol for the area, and said the board should examine the costs of services it now provides.

Needs Of Seniors Surveyed

Senior citizens in Marin and three other counties are being asked to tell their most pressing needs in a survey by the North Bay Senior Planning Council in San Rafael.

The council is asking the older residents to choose their four most urgent needs, in order of priority, from a list of services. Included are low cost meals, consumer education, shopping assistance, health services, employment, transportation, recreation, legal assistance, housing, home care and telephone visits.

Flora Hopkins of the council said respondents will also be asked their income and will not have to sign their names to the survey.

The questionnarie will be passed out through senior citizens organizations. Further information can be obtained from the council office, 179 Los Ranchitos Road.

Questionnaire On Recreation Is Circulated

A new neighborhood group in San Rafael's Canal area is circulating a questionnaire that solicits opinion on local recreational facilities, according to a spokesman.

Pauline Haro, chairman of the Canal Area Neighborhood Action League, said results of the survey will aid the league in determining parents' feelings about local recreation opportunities for their children.

The group, formed last month, hopes to hand questionnaires to about 300 local families, she said.

The group next meets at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 12 in Bahia Vista School, 125 Bahia Way.

LIFE IN BELVEDERE

Heritage Plays Key Role For Church Rector's Wife

By PAT BALMES

Through Mitzie Thornton's open door walk distinguished visitors, neighbors, children and parishioners of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere.

Mrs. John Thornton, the wife of St. Stephen's rector, has furnished their Belvedere Lagoon cottage, appropriately, in the style of America's past.

"My heritage has meant a great deal to me. I think roots are terribly important, having a past history and being part of the continuum," said Mrs. Thornton, a great-granddaughter of Brigham Young.

She said that after Joseph Smith, founder of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, was martyred in Illinois, his widow Emily Partridge married Brigham Young who led the Mormons west to Salt Lake City.

Years later Brigham Young sent their son, Mrs. Thornton's maternal grandfather, east to study to become a church architect. He later worked on the temple, she said.

"I DO NOT think God is either a Mormon or an Episcopalian," said Mitzie Thornton, who has joined her husband's church but has also asked not to be excommunicated from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints because of her heritage.

"The Mormon religion is not for a rebel. I needed the discipline, but I did not want it; I was not a church-goer in my teens," she said.

"How did I come to marry a minister?" she spoke the question she has been asked many times.

Mrs. Thornton told of her life as a minister's wife, as she relaxed on the deck behind her cottage on the green lagoon.

"I was a prescription for John. His dearest friend was a doctor. John was overworked; he was going to Africa to join Albert Schweitzer and doing a lot in the community for the Congregational Church in a suburb of Salt Lake City. The doctor said, 'You have got to relax. Get a bike and I'll get you a date.' "

Mitzie had been away at Mills College and received her master's degree from California College of Arts and Crafts. Then she spent "two frivolous years," she said, in Salt Lake City and was about to return to San Francisco to "suffer enough in a garret to become a great painter."

INSTEAD SHE married John Thornton. That was 14 years ago. They are the parents of Johnny, 12, who performs as a magician at children's parties, and Andrea, 10.

Reverend Thornton felt drawn to the Episcopal denomination and finished the last two years of his studies at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, simultaneously teaching religion at Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito, archery and tennis at San Rafael Recreation Department, learning Hebrew and working as a store janitor, Mrs. Thornton said.

When he was asked by St. Stephen's parishioners to become their rector and moved his little family into the rectory on West Shore Avenue in Belvedere, Mrs. Thornton realized hers would always be an open door.

"I thought, 'There goes my painting.' And I have not painted since. To me painting is so serious, so engrossing. When I paint, I forget everything else. Now I do mostly crafts like for the Canterbury Fair," she said.

She is cochairman of St. Stephen's fourth annual fair to be held on Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the church's courtyard and parish hall.

Her workshop is stitching coordinated patchwork cardtable cloths, napkins and flower pot covers for the hostess who serves a large number of guests at folding tables.

Mrs. Thornton laughed abut inevitably being introduced at parties as "our minister's wife."

"I AM VERY much my own person. I do not try to keep up an image. Some ministers' wives feel you have to, but there are certain things that have to be done," she said.

Mrs. Thornton did three volunteer jobs, worked on Little League, Sausalito Nursery School, Head Start, Museum West and campaigned for the Cancer Crusade, all in one year.

"I must have fulfilled about 10 roles," she said, adding that she needs the outlet tennis.

Audubon Canyon Ranch docent training program, sponsored by the Junior League, is her outside interest this year.

One of the assets of being married to Reverend Thornton, she has found, is meeting "terribly interesting people on a basis that other people do not meet them." She spoke of dining with Bishop and Mrs. James Pike, Bishop and Mrs. John Robinson and Dr. and Mrs. Allan Watts on the Watts' houseboat in Sausalito.

"The one who knew most about the Bible was the author Allan Watts," she said of the heavy religious discussion at table.

Evaluating her role as a minister's wife, Mrs. Thornton said, "It is a wonderful thing to answer people's needs. The lonely people on earth are those who have nobody else's needs to fill."

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Girl Worried That Shoplifting Record Could Ruin Job Chances

RAP:

When I was almost 13 I did a stupid thing. I started shoplifting, just to get in good with a bunch of kids. Being dumb as well as stupid, I got caught. They took my name and called my parents and gave me a big warning but I wasn't sent to juvenile hall.

What worries me now that I've reformed is: will my past be held against me? Can I work in supermarkets or department stores? Is it down on your working papers that you were a thief? — DUMB AT 13 (NOW 16)

DEAR DUMB:

One shoplifting bust at 13 won't prevent a reformed 16-year-old from getting a job.

Those records probably went no farther than the store manager's office, and no doubt have already been destroyed.

But to be doubly sure, why don't you ask the manager? He might be so impressed with your concern that he'd offer you work. — HELEN AND SUE

HELEN AND SUE:

Is a so-called virgin who is raped forcibly still considered a virgin? — CURIOUS

CURIOUS:

Psychologically, I'd say — "Yes!" — SUE

DEAR CURIOUS:

And really, is there any other way to view so-called virginity other than psychologically — except perhaps in a physical examination? — HELEN

RAP:

My stepfather (for two years now) says he paid for this house so he has a right to every room. He's always butting into my personal life and barging into my room at night or any other time.

I'm not always dressed and sometimes I'm very undressed, so this is embarrassing for a 15-year-old girl. A little frightening too.

My mother respects my privacy. What to do about "him"? — JULIE

JULIE:

If your mother can't teach her husband that a girl needs privacy there's something wrong with her — or him. Tell her how important this is to you. — SUE

DEAR JULIE:

. . .And insist that if your stepfather can't learn to knock, you need a lock for your door. — HELEN

RAP:

How's this for a funny bumper sticker? I saw it in San Francisco, on the back of a Volks: "Don't come too close — this car is in heat." — COL-LECTOR OF "FUNNIES"

COL:

And how's this for a description: A father is a person who lays out two thousand dollars for his daughter's wedding and then gets the job of "giving her away." — SUE (ALSO A COL-LECTOR)

In 1918, the Hapsburg monarchy of Austria-Hungary was dissolved. Vienna became the capital of Austria and Budapest the capital of Hungary.

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

'Obligatory Finesse' By True Meaning Really Not A Finesse

Experts give the name "obligatory finesse" to a certain play. As a matter of fact, this play isn't really a finesse at all, but it certainly is obligatory.

Opening lead — ♠ Q

SOUTH SINKS

West opened the queen of spades, and South's heart sank. It was clear that he was going to lose two spade tricks, and there was a good chance that he would also lose two trump tricks. The defenders took their two spades and then shifted to clubs. It was now up to South to limit the trump loss to one trick.

South had only one hope: that one of the opponents held the ace and only one other trump. He therefore played on the assumption that this holding actually existed.

There was no problem about who held the ace of hearts. West had overcalled with a topless spade suit and needed the side strength of the ace of hearts for his bid. Moreover, East had passed throughout with the ace of spades; he would have raised spades if he also had the ace of hearts.

QUEEN WINS

South began the trumps by leading low from his own hand through West's ace. West naturally played low, and dummy's queen won.

Now declarer returned a low trump from dummy and played low from his own hand. This play-ducking in both hands — is the obligatory finesse. It does no good to lose the king to the ace, since then the jack or ten is bound to take a second trump trick. The only hope is that the ace will have to appear on the trick, even though South has played low.

PLAY WORKS

The play worked in this case. West had to take his ace of trumps, and South could later draw the last trump with his king. The rest was easy.

Cal-Vet Loan Term Extended

California veterans now have 25 years from their date of discharge to apply for Cal-Vet farm and home loans, Marin veterans service officer James V. Burdick said yesterday.

Previously, veterans had only 20 years to apply but a new state law grants the additional five years — especially important to Korean veterans, he said. The same law also gives former prisoners of war first priority for loans, along with wounded and disabled veterans.

Flood Control Bonds Go To Novato Voters

Voters in the Novato Flood Control Zone will be asked to approve a $4.5 million bond issue for flood control in Tuesday's election.

A similar bond issue on the April 17 ballot received 63.9 per cent of the voters but failed because two-thirds majority is required.

In that election there was no definite plan for flood control. Since that time, the Army Corps of Engineers has outlined a $19.1 million plan for flood control which would be financed both by the local flood control district and the corps.

Novato Creek would be left almost unchanged. Flood waters from Novato Creek would be diverted to Warner Creek via a channel from Simmons Lane to Warner Creek at McClay Road. The channel would be 20 feet wide and nine feet deep.

It would connect with Novato Creek at the mouth of Warner Creek. A larger underground conduit would go under the Nave shopping center to handle the flood waters of Arroyo Avichi Creek.

Novato Creek would be widened to a three-foot concrete channel from the mouth of Warner creek to Highway 101. It would be controlled from Highway 101 to its mouth by dirt levees.

The corps plan has pedestrian, bicycle and horse trails along the banks of the creeks, and landscaping along the channel.

The $4.5 million bonds would be used for the local share of the corps project, according to Engineer Lewis Frederickson of the flood control zone.

Argument for the bonds was written by the Citizens for Flood Control Committee. It says that "Novato cannot play Russian roulette with our neighbors' lives and homes. The creeks are badly silted so that they can no longer handle even a moderate storm."

The committee said passage of the bond issue is the only sound solution for solving the flooding problem. It will enable the flood control district to proceed with a local-federal project.

No ballot argument was made against the issue.

Milk Program For Schools Will Be Revived

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration, bowing to a Congressional directive, will revive full-scale operation of the "snack" milk subsidy program for school children, according to the Agriculture Department.

The program involves federal payments for extra servings of milk in addition to the halfpints that are the standard part of regular school breakfasts and lunches.

The department began the 1973-74 school year with the program operating at an annual rate of $25 million, about one-fourth of last year's $97 million rate.

Congress, however, voted to restore the full $97 million.

In making its announcement, the department said it was reviving full-scale operation of the program after getting permission from the Office of Management and Budget.

Fire Hydrant Test Aimed At Promoting Annexation

The City of San Rafael on Saturday will attempt to demonstrate that the water pressure of the county fire hydrant system in the Country Club area is inadequate to fight structural fires, the city administration said today.

The demonstration is aimed at prompting annexation of the area to the city by showing residents that Country Club needs city services, especially fire protection, according to Raymond Meador, assistant to the city manager.

Annexation of the area has been endorsed by the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission, but residents seeking the move must obtain signatures from at least 25 per cent of 500 registered voters in the unincorporated area adjacent to San Rafael, before an annexation election can be called.

(The annexation attempt will be killed, however, if written protests are received by property owners representing 50 per cent of the area's assessed valuation, according to Marin County Administrator John F. Barrows. He noted that the attempt will also die if residents cannot obtain the necessary signatures to call an election, or if a majority votes no in the election.

(In addition, he said residents will also have to approve a water line assessment district before the area may be annexed.)

City officials and firemen will appear at 1:30 p.m. at Pigeon Hollow Road and Marina Court Drive, and again at 2:30 p.m. on Highland Avenue, to test simultaneously the pressure of county hydrants with nearby city hydrants, Meador said.

Meador noted that county fire protection in the area consists of a lone fire truck staffed by one fireman in Santa Venetia, while San Rafael has two trucks and six men stationed near San Rafael High School, and another truck and three men in Peacock Gap.

Meador claimed that previous tests of county fire hydrant pressure in the area have shown it inadequate to handle "any structural fire."

Man Nabbed For Auto Theft Probe

A Sebastopol man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of auto theft when Petaluma police came upon a car reported stolen 10 minutes before from behind a bar in Petaluma.

Held in Petaluma jail pending a court appearance today was Michael Neal Curry, 29, said to have taken a car belonging to Byron Fauss of Petaluma. Police said Curry was sitting in the car, when it was sighted at 10:30 p.m. at the corner of Kentucky and Prospect Streets.

CENTIPEDE INVADES FAIRFAX

Teachers and students at Manor School in Fairfax stood around in awe yesterday as a giant centipede — about 250 feet long — raced around the playground. But the sinister looking creature was actually 60 separate creatures, students in the school's fourth, fifth and sixth grades. And the mammoth bug was only painted butcher paper, fashioned by the students and their teachers, Vicki Bellforte and Nancy Scott, for Manor's Halloween parade.

Terminal Water Question Arises

The specter of a waterless ferry terminal — without the fresh water supply it will need to open as scheduled in seven months — was raised yesterday by Larkspur city officials.

Pointing to Marin Municipal Water District's moratorium on new service, Vice Mayor Neil Brixon offered his warning at a meeting between city and bridge district officials. They were conferring on formation of an improvement district to finance $2.6 million in roadway and utility work on San Quentin Peninsula. The work would serve both the ferry terminal and extensive projects planned by T.I. Properties and other developers.

Another meeting was set at 9 a.m. on Nov. 21, again in toll plaza offices.

A spokesman for the water district confirmed the moratorium could affect the ferry terminal, which will need approximately 30,000 gallons of water a day for the ferries, terminal facilities, irrigation of landscaping and firefighting capability.

J. Dietrich Stroh, the water district's engineering manager, told the Independent-Journal the water needed for the terminal was equivalent to the need for about 60 homes.

It will be up to the water district's board of directors to consider exempting the terminal from the moratorium, he said. The bridge district has not applied yet for an exemption, he added.

Speaking at the meeting with Larkspur officials, the bridge district's senior engineer, Glen Wallis, conceded there "will be some difficulty" getting water for the $4.5 million terminal.

He said provisions to conserve and reuse water should help get an exemption.

Brixon, declaring "the big stall now (to the terminal) is water," observed that the bridge district's insurance carriers will not permit use of the terminal without water for fire protection.

Another unresolved problem raised at the meeting was whether the improvement district could get water to the terminal site by June even if the water district granted the exemption. City officials estimated the improvement district could not be ready to start construction until mid-April, only six weeks before the terminal is supposed to open.

Bridge board president Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco insisted, however, that "we can make do somehow. We'll work on a backup program," he said.

Larkspur City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst added the caution that time also will be needed to prepare an environmental impact report on the improvement district projects.

Push Made On Plant's Relocation

A move to relocate the Ross Valley Sanitary District sewage treatment plant to San Quentin Prison has been revived by the Golden Gate Bridge District.

The present plant is opposite the bridge district's $4.5 million Larkspur ferry terminal. The terminal is supposed to open in June, and district officials have observed the plant has been the subject of complaints about odor.

A similar move last year by the bridge district was shot down by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, who feared it was a ploy to prevent consideration of putting the Central Marin ferry terminal on prison property.

The Independent-Journal, which learned yesterday about the new move to shift the plant, was told by Behr that he no longer objects to the shift since the terminal site has been set.

The senator said the propsoed shift is being considered by the General Services Department, which is drafting a plan for future use of any surplus land at the prison. About 20 acres at the west end of the prison may be available for a subregional plant to treat sewage from throughout Central Marin, he said.

Search For Daly City Girl Ends In Tiburon

A missing Daly City girl who was the object of a massive search yesterday near her home was found early this morning in Tiburon, where she was trying to book a motel room.

At about 12:40 a.m. today Tiburon Police Sgt. Michael Reno saw 11-year-old Jessie Casetta getting off a Golden Gate Transit bus at Tiburon Boulevard and Main Street. When he asked her where she was going, she said she was headed for the Tiburon Lodge, where some friends of her family were staying. He let her go on to the lodge, where a desk clerk called police when she asked to book a room.

She later told Tiburon police she had left her home at about 6:30 a.m. after receiving a spanking and had gone by bus to the San Francisco Ferry Building. From there, she said, she went by ferry to Sausalito, where she spent the day fishing and trick or treating. Finally she took another bus to Tiburon.

Searchers including Daly City and San Francisco police, a dog tracking unit and two helicopters from the San Mateo County Sheriff's Department, Daly City employees and Boy Scouts had spent about eight hours yesterday looking for the girl in the caves and rugged underbrush of the Crocker Mountain-Mount San Bruno area.

Daly City police said she had left her home with her family's two cocker spaniels. Her mother became alarmed when the dogs returned a few hours later without her.

Lecture Set On Eastern Mysticism

The appeals and dangers of eastern mysticism will be discussed by Victor Kulanday at 8 p.m., Tuesday in Alemany Library at Dominican College in San Rafael.

Kulanday, of New Delhi, India, was the chief press officer for the United States Information Agency in India for 18 years. He is now the editor of Laity Magazine. He has been special representative of the Holy See at the International Family Conference and International Conference on Aid Agencies. He helped found a home for Christian boys in Bombay.

Man Held In Burglary Probe

A San Rafael man was arrested on suspicion of burglary today after police found him near an open door of a fried chicken outlet.

Thomas Lawrence O'Neil, 19, was booked into Marin County Jail and held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said they responded to a silent alarm at Kentucky Fried Chicken, 555 Second Street, at 2:50 a.m., found a rear door open, and spotted O'Neil walking across a nearby parking lot.

Police also said they discovered three pieces of fried chicken and two pint canisters of potato salad dumped near a fence.

Tiburon Youth Robbery Victim

A Tiburon youth walking to work along the Marin City underpass on Highway 101 was robbed last night by two young men who took his wristwatch and $2 from his wallet.

Timothy N. Detels, 17, of 266 Cecilia Way, told sheriff's deputies he was halted at 6:45 p.m. by two youths who asked him if he knew Joe.

Police said Detels told them he didn't and began to walk away when the pair grabbed him from behind, robbed him and ran away. Deputies said the thieves were between 18 and 20 years old and apparently were not armed.

Pleas Made To Charges

Two San Rafael men, suspected of robbing a Greenbrae ice cream parlor and shooting a youth who gave chase, pleaded innocent yesterday to armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon.

Raymond McFarland, 31, and James William Frisby, 24, will have a preliminary hearing next Thursday in Marin Municipal Court.

They are accused of taking an unknown amount of cash from Swensen's Ice Cream in the Bon Air Shopping Center Saturday, then shooting Hubbard E. Newlin, 17, of San Anselmo, when he chased them in his car.

Gallup To Seek Out Happiest People On Earth

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Opinion researcher George Gallup said yesterday he is about to embark on the first global poll ever taken on the state of mankind.

Gallup said the survey would include people of more than 100 countries, from the most primitive cultures to the superindustrial nations, in hopes of discovering the happiest people in the world. He is meeting here with members of the Charles F. Kettering Foundation of Dayton, Ohio, which will be paying for the $100,000 study.

"We will have an idea of the psychological well-being of the world when the year-long poll is completed," Gallup said. "I've thought of doing this for 20 years.

"We want to see how increasing incomes relate to the satisfactions and happiness of peoples," he said.

Kaiser To Increase Health Plan Rates

Kaiser Foundation Health Plan rates will rise on Jan. 1, but the increase will be considerably less than the last price rise.

Basic monthly membership charges will increase by 3.4 per cent, according to Frank C. Jones, vice president and health plan manager. All individual members' rates will go up Jan. 1 and most group plans, he said. Other group plans will rise on their contract renewal dates.

The cost to single members will go up from $17.80 a month to $18.39. The cost for a couple without children will increase from $32.90 to $33.98, and the charge for a family of three or more will rise from $43.15 to $44.59 a month.

Jones said the "increase is the health plan's lowest in the past nine years and is among the lowest of all cost increases announced this year by major providers of health care coverage."

Last January the plan raised prices by 8.8 per cent.

The newest rise was granted by the Cost of Living Council because of rising costs.

Arrives Prepared

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — When Daniel Webster Macon, 63, went to Municipal Court to face drunk driving charges, he arrived prepared. He brought his own box lunch of fried chicken, explaining he could not pay the fine he knew was coming and didn't like jail food. He ate the chicken while waiting to be called, then was allowed to go home with orders to come back in a week with the fine money.

Four In Running For Sewer Seats

Problems of upgrading sewer treatment to meet new antipollution guidelines face four candidates for three seats on the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District board in Tuesday's election.

Seeking new terms are incumbents George F. Carney, 75, Barry C. Hibben, 45, and Joseph H. Bell, 44. They are being challenged by first-time candidate Pauline L. Summer, 29, whose entry into the race makes this the third contested election in the 21-year history of the district. The district has 5,702 registered voters.

With federal and state agencies requiring upgraded treatment of raw sewage to meet new antipollution guidelines, directors must make recommendations on whether the district should remain a separate entity and improve its present treatment plant, or join in a consolidated sewer system for all sanitary districts in Southern and Central Marin.

The Southern Marin Subregional Sewerage Agency, made up of nine sanitary districts, currently is studying proposals for a consolidted system. Public hearings are expected in February.

Carney, a retired civil engineer and Sausalito resident since 1939, strongly opposes the district joining a consolidated sewer system. "I want to keep our own system and upgrade it to secondary treatment to meet regional water quality control board guidelines," he said.

He cited recent improvements to the district treatment plant at Fort Baker that make it "foremost of any district in the state in keeping ahead of antipollution requirements." Carney was appointed to the district board in 1965.

His sentiments were echoed by Bell, a printer and Marin City resident since 1947. "We have our own plant here and we already have spent money on equipment and personnel. It will just cost taxpayers more to convert to a consolidated system, he said.

Carney and Bell also noted that the district has an excellent deep water sewage outfall near the Golden Gate Bridge, considered one of the most ideal locations in the state. Bell also was appointed to the board in 1965.

Hibben, a stockbroker, was appointed to the board six months ago to fill the unexpired term of Ture Dahlstrom. He does not oppose a consolidated system outright. "I want to see the final cost results," he said. "Then I will make my recommendation and there will be public hearings. The final decision will be up to the voters."

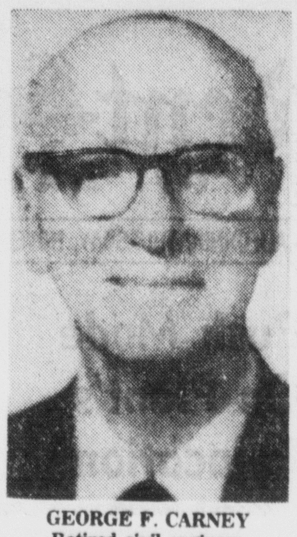

One drawback to consolidation that Hibben and the other two incumbents pointed out is the disruption that would be required on Sausalito and Marin City streets. Sewer lines would have to be dug up to reverse the flow of effluent to a new outfall, probably at Point San Quentin.

Miss Summer, a design engineer with a Novato firm and a former designer of sewer treatment plants and pumping stations, favors consolidation as the best road for the district in the long run.

"Granted we have the best primary treatment," she said. "But the Environmental Protection Agency and other agencies are requiring secondary and tertiary treatment. We don't have the space or the money that is going to run into. I don't think we can meet the new standards without undue strain on taxpayers."

She said she understands consolidation opponents' concern over the cost, which has been estimated at $16 million, but that going it alone may prove even more costly and could result in the district cutting itself off from federal funds.

"If it is proven to me to be feasible to remain separate, I would go along. But it is important that people understand what the standards will be in the future," she said. She has been a district resident three and one-half years.

Ex-Patrolman Is Convicted Of Kicking Prisoner

REDDING (AP) — A former California Highway Patrolman has been convicted of kicking a handcuffed prisoner in the stomach.

A seven-man, five-woman jury deliberated one hour before convicting Gary Gilbert, 33, on the misdemeanor battery charge last night in Central Valley Justice Court.

Gilbert was charged with kicking Steven Wilson, 21, who had been arrested for investigation of possessing of marijuana. The charge against Wilson was dropped the morning after the Aug. 14 incident.

Dan Cunningham, a Shasta County sheriff's deputy, said he witnessed the kicking incident and reported it to authorities. Gilbert was dismissed from the Highway Patrol after an investigation.

Wife Of Singer Sues Comedians

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Joyce Witherspoon, wife of singer Jimmy Witherspoon, sued comedians Redd Foxx and Slappy White yesterday, saying Foxx hit her.

Mrs Witherspoon demanded $300,000 damages. She said a gun was pointed at her and she was beaten up during a brawl May 18 in the Memory Lane Club.

Libya May Buy Boeing Planes

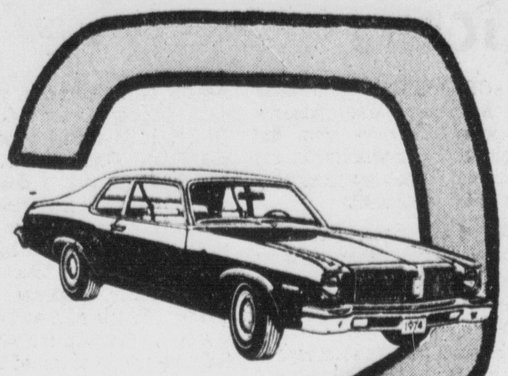

BEIRUT (UPI) —Libyan Airways has established contacts with the American Boeing Aircraft Company with a view to buying four Boeing 727 aircraft, according to the Iraqi News Agency.

The agency said Tuesday the aircraft would be used on new routes Libya plans to open with various African and Asian capitals.

The Libyan company also plans to buy six small aircraft to be used on domestic flights inside Libya, it said.

It said a Libyan Airways technical team is expected to fly to the United States soon to pursue the contacts with boeing.

Ban On Building Gains Reprieve

SACRAMENTO — Stinson Beach residents today gained a temporary reprieve from the Regional Water Quality Control Board's ban on new construction in the community.

The State Water Resources Control Board postponed to its Nov. 15 meeting a review of the regional board's order, scheduled for today.

The state board's staff reported that further study is needed on the boundaries of the building ban area, together with consideration of impact by the planned Golden Gate National Recreation Area and neighboring state parks.

The regional board on Sept. 25 ordered that no new septic tanks be built in the Stinson Beach area, effective yesterday. Deputy County Counsel George T. Silvestri Jr. and Stinson Beach County Water District officials won a delay on the ban until it it is reviewed by the state board. However if the state board fails to act by Nov. 25, the ban may take effect automatically, regional water quality officials said earlier.

Any construction for which a building permit is issued before the ban either is confirmed by the state board or automatically imposed, will be exempted from the ban.

Stinson Beach County Water District officials contend the district cannot afford to build a sewer system and treatment plant meeting state water pollution restrictions.

Owner Reports On Plans On Wolfback

Based on misinformation from Sausalito Planning Director Herb Case, the Independent-Journal mistakenly reported yesterday that Warren Glass, at a meeting with city officials Tuesday, objected that purchase of his property by the Golden Gate National Recreation Area would scuttle his plans to build a recording studio on Wolfback Ridge.

Glass reported today that he did not attend the meeting and has no plans to build a recording studio on Wolfback Ridge Road. Architect Donald Olsen represented Glass and expressed concern that the national park may invade the privacy of the Glass home, which is on Wolfback Ridge Road adjacent to lands being considered for inclusion in the recreation area.

Glass owns a parcel in county jurisdiction north of Sausalito which is being negotiated for sale to Dean Thompson of Southern California, who has an application with Marin County to build a recording studio there.

Raw Farm Price Index Declines

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Agriculture Department has released figures indicating possible relief for the grocery shopper, reporting yesterday that raw farm product prices fell another 4 per cent in the month ending Oct. 15.

The raw farm product price average had leaped a record 20 per cent in August but then fell 8 per cent in September.

Watergate Break-In: New Twist

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Federal investigators suspect the Watergate break-in was ordered because of Republican fears the Democrats possessed highly incriminating evidence against President Nixon, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said today.

The evidence was believed to include information that would link the President to questionable large-scale contributions from billionaire Howard Hughes and to a favorable settlement of federal antitrust action against the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., the newspaper said.

"The investigative theory is highly significant because it would provide for the first time a rational explanation of the bugging and break-in that led to the far-reaching Watergate scandals," said the story, written by Thomas W. Ottenad, a Washington correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

The newspaper said the theory would lend weight "to allegations of high-level involvement in the break-in because Mr. Nixon's effort to halt ITT prosecution and the connection of his intimate friend, Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo, with the exclusive Hughes were known only to the President or a few of his top associates."

White House documents obtained by the Post-Dispatch show a determined effort by the administration to link Hughes to the Democrats, the story said.

"Rebozo, who had a short while before received $100,000 from the mysterious billionaire that may have been intended for Mr. Nixon's benefit, played a key, secret part in the effort, the documents indicate," the newspaper said.

The story said Senate Watergate Committee investigators are examining actively the theory of the burglars' true motivation.

"Ironically, (former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F.) O'Brien and other Democrats have told the Post Dispatch that in 1972 they possessed no information of the type that, it is now believed, the burglars may have been seeking," the story said. "However, the Republicans did not know this."

"On the contrary, it is known that high White House and GOP campaign officials were concerned about a heavy barrage of criticism that O'Brien was leveling at their handling of the ITT affair, the paper said.

Chrysler To Hike Its Prices $63

DETROIT (UPI) —Chrysler Corp. notified the Cost of Living Council today that it plans to raise the prices of its 1974 model cars and trucks by an average $63.25, the second increase on the 1974 models.

Chrysler was granted an average $51 increase when it introduced the new models in September, but was denied a second request for an average $71 hike shortly after it negotiated a new contract with the United Auto Workers.

Falsehoods Used Against Measure E

We have become accustomed to misrepresentations and outright falsehoods in political campaigns. We have learned to expect them in the big, heavily financed campaigns such as that for and against Proposition 1, in which some of the stuff produced for the "antis" by Whitaker and Baxter has the governor's staff tearing its hair in frustrated rage.

But here in Marin, we have homegrown confusion spreaders. They are willing to put out any sort of exaggerated, unreal nonsense in the guise of "facts" to promote their pet projects or defeat those they don't happen to like.

A DISTRESSING example is to be found in propaganda being circulated by something called the Committee To Save Marin, which is out to defeat Measure E — Marin Municipal Water District's $7.5 million bond issue.

There is nothing whatever in Measure E that would "Los Angelize" Marin.

The proposal is a very modest one — too modest, really, to meet the need. It is merely to enable the water district to acquire 8,000 acre feet annually from Sonoma County as a back-up in case of a series of dry years. North Marin Water District has already gone farther in self-protection.

INSIDE THE FOLDER are such gems as an "Old Frontier Epic" which informs us: "The idea of bringing water in from where people aren't yet to where they are now (or projected to be coming in the future) has resulted in that magnificent example of hydrological overkill that we call the California Water Project."

Ignoring the pros and cons of the California Water Project (which, of course, have nothing to do with Measure E), the author of that one should henceforth be required to hike daily, with a couple of buckets, to Lake Lagunitas or Kent Lake — whichever is nearer his home — to get his supply of water. It is brought to him now from where people aren't to where he is — by a pipeline just like that proposed from Sonoma County.

In "Here Are the Facts" this sheetfull of falsehoods informs us that the proposed pipeline "can deliver 22,000 acre feet of water . . . enough to add 13,000 more people."

The fact is that the pipeline proposed can deliver only 8,000 acre feet per year. The pipe capacity is 22,000 acre feet. Anyone (except such as the authors of the "No on E" arguments) knows that a pipe cannot be filled to capacity constantly — besides which, Sonoma County will allow this one to carry no water at all during the summer. It will be used in the winter so reservoirs can fill to capacity and be kept full long enough to avoid a summer shortage.

Virtually the entire "No on E" pamphlet is made up of just such garbage.

THERE ARE legitimate arguments both for and against Measure E. But not one legitimate argument is to be found in this publication of the "antis." It is strictly an effort to confuse and mislead.

It says something about the opponents of any measure when they resort to this kind of campaigning. What it says is not complimentary.

Those Intelligent Jays

We have had much to say about Marin's smart jays. A lady in Colorado appears to have the topper to all jay stories. She recently wrote to Smithsonian Magazine about a Colorado scrub jay that made a slide out of an icy redwood bannister, flying to the top of its play equipment and sliding down time after time. This innovative use of a facility for play purposes is as much a sign of intelligence as the use of tools, she reasons.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Special Districts Defeat Efforts At Citizen Control

By EARL G. WATERS

"There is simply no way interested citizens or the media can possibly keep track of the activities and spending policies of a multitude of special districts. Such government is not healthy in a democracy where public affairs require citizen participation."

So spake Mike Manley, chairman of the board of one of the state's more than 4,000 special districts. They were unusual words to come from a director of a level of government which generally speaks of itself as a "grassroots" government.

They were exceedingly unusual and brave words coming from a young Sacramento attorney whose private practice may suffer as a result of such forthrightness.

EVEN MORE UNUSUAL was the fact that Manley was speaking in support of a movement which would eliminate his district and his office. This is the effort to consolidate city and county government at the state's capital. Included in the thinking is the absorption of the numerous special districts within the county.

His remarks were spurred by disclosures made at the county supervisors' meeting that special districts were costing the county millions of dollars in revenue sharing funds.

Federal revenue sharing is allocated to general purpose governments and exclude special districts. County residents, it was pointed out, are shortchanged in the revenue sharing because of the proliferation of small, independent special governments.

These facts came to light as a result of requests from the special districts to the county for financial assistance.

THE REACTION portends the difficulties to be encountered by Gov. Ronald Reagan in his efforts to bring about reforms in local government now being studied by the commission he appointed early this year.

At the Sacramento meeting, one supervisor prophetically declared, "Everybody is trying to protect their own principalities." Another said that "special purpose governments lack a uniform system of determining priorities, with each unit lobbying its own cause."

This was essentially the finding of the Institute for Local Self-Government, which found that single-purpose districts operate to the detriment of the public since their demands for funds are made without relationship to the overall needs of the community and the available dollars.

The report gives backing to Manley's claims in that it held the "low political visibility" of special districts creates a situation of "non-accountability". It declared that special districts are most often "special dynasties" and said that "by all modern measures it is an intolerable anomaly in today's sensitively democratic society."

Manley, in supporting local government consolidation, said, "It would almost surely result in economies for the taxpayer but beyond that it would subject many more of the activities of local government to needed public scrutiny."

All this country needs is a few more statesmen like Manley.

"All right then, I resign."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Fears Proposition 1 Will Hike Property Tax

Proposition One should be defeated because it includes no limit on school taxes and could actually boost them, since state ADA payments may be lowered, under its provisions.

Also, Proposition 1 allows the legislature to enact new state taxes by a ⅔ vote but to "permit adjustment" of local property taxes by a simple majority vote.

While its title says it "requires state funding of new programs mandated to local governments", Proposition 1 allows two alarming exceptions to this reimbursement: where the new state mandate is also applicable to the private sector, as with increased workmen's compensation, death, and disability benefits or senior citizens' and renters' tax relief; and when "the workload under an existing program is increased by the state mandate", as with sewage plant improvements or if the county had to add another court.

"Mandated by the state" means no escape for the local entity, so what will happen? The local governing board will reluctantly have to use the provision in Proposition 1 whereby an "emergency" can be declared and a tax increase voted by four out of five members of a city council or school board.

In short, Proposition 1 reduces State income tax, which is proportional to ability to pay, but at the expense of the property taxpayer.

Unanswered Questions About Proposition 1

There are some unanswered questions in regard to Proposition 1. One wonders why it was an absolute necessity to vote on the initiative in November. It is costing the taxpayers an additional $22 million to vote now rather than in June. . .

Proponents of Proposition 1 maintain that the entrenched lobbyists in Sacramento have the greatest influence upon passage of legislation. If Proposition 1 passes and there is less money available, those very same lobbyists who have the inside track are more likely to obtain an even greater piece of the pie. . .

The main difficulty with Proposition 1, regardless of its practical consequences, i.e. shifting the taxes from state to local levels, is that it has become identified as a means of taking away benefits from the poor, the disadvantaged and the minority groups in our society. Its appearance is negative. Chicanos, blacks, the poor, the elderly and those unable to care for themselves see it as an attack upon them. . .

Rather than placing severe constitutional handicaps on future generations, it is time for us all to put pressure on our legislators to effect genuine tax reforms.

Spending On Political Campaigns Deplored

I read with some dismay that Proposition E backers have hired the public relations firm of Arnold, Palmer and Noble to handle their campaign. It is a sad, though frequently made, commentary on American politics when special interest groups are allowed to buy a campaign managed by a professional public relations firm whose expertise is not in presenting facts at all, but rather in packaging the facts in such a way that the public will buy them in spite of their lack of merit.

Marin County voters have demonstrated their ability to judge issues on their merits alone in the past, however. To wit: we overwhelmingly passed the coastal initiative in spite of the campaign waged against it throughout the state. I do not think this campaign to pass Proposition E will be successful, therefore, and in fact it may help defeat its own purpose. I am concerned that more and more political campaigns seem to be a contest between big money, special interest groups on the one hand, and grass roots efforts on the other which do not have the money to buy professionals, but which must depend on volunteers.

I think it is time we re-evaluated the political process in America. We need to set a limit on the amount of money any one individual or organization can contribute to political campaigns.

Measure E Opponents Ignore Pipeline Facts

One of the curiosities of the water bond issue controversy is the opponents' insistence, in the face of evidence any reasonable person would find convincing, that the Measure E pipeline could or would be used to carry more than the 8,000 acre feet it is intended to supply.

They do not even attempt to explain how the practical difficulties would be overcome — the prior claims of upstream users (Novato and Petaluma) which remove their share of the water before it reaches the Marin Municipal pipeline; the $16 million it would cost to bypass the existing Petaluma-Cotati pipe, which is the constricting factor . . . the fact that water will be released to Marin only during off-peak winter months, never in the summer.

Instead, they retreat into meaningless generalities, referring to the "theoretical" capacity of the Measure E pipeline (the theoretical capacity has never been in question — it is the actuality that controls) and to "other methods" than a bond issue for raising the money without specifying what . . .

Clearly, Measure E opponents simply cannot afford to concede that the pipeline would not carry more than the 8,000 acre feet, because if they make this concession, then they must also concede that Measure E is not a threat to the growth limits of the county plan, and then their major argument has been destroyed.

Proposition 1 Defeat Seen As Blank Check

It is hard to understand when the League of Women Voters say they deal in facts in denouncing Proposition 1. They have recently refused offers for briefings on Proposition 1 by the proponents. As a matter of fact their president in a radio interview in Los Angeles recently made the statement that she had not read the initiative and had no intention of doing so.

Alan Post, the alleged non-partisan legislative analyst, was proven grossly wrong in his estimates on the impact of the governor's welfare reform two years ago. After he made his dire prediction that there would be over $600 million cut in next year's budget, he privately went to the director of finance and admitted he was at least $200 million wrong. Initial estimates by the economic commission indicate next year's state budget could increase $600 million even if Proposition 1 passes. This does not include another $200 million which would be a surplus that would have to be returned to the people under the features of Proposition 1.

If Proposition 1 is defeated it will, in fact, be a blank check to all politicians to increase all taxes to their hearts' content and to the detriment of our hard-earned dollars. . .

Suggests Voters Read Page 6 Of Pamphlet

Hopefully each prospective voter on Nov. 6 will carefully read the argument in favor of Proposition 1 contained on page 6 of the pamphlet included by mail with their sample ballot. Property owners should note that a yes vote not only places a limit on state expenditures but specifically prohibits a shift in taxes or costs on to local property taxpayers. That's worth a trip to the polling place.

Goverance Need Not Fall Apart, But Investigation Must Continue

WASHINGTON — While the domestic fire storm swirled and the automobiles on Pennsylvania Avenue honked "Impeach", President Nixon and Secretary of State Kissinger handled American policy in the Middle East crisis coolly and boldly. This says something about the president's capacity to govern, beleaguered by internal scandal. We can feel hope that national policy is not really going to fall apart.

Nevertheless, a lot has to be done before we are out of the woods. An indispensable step is an independent investigation of the scandals that surround the White House.

Many people believe the best solution would be for President Nixon's integrity and authority to be completely cleared. This can be done only on the basis of the full facts. They can be brought out only by a completely impartial investigation.

Congress and the administration are now wrestling with the problem of how to set up an investigation, constitutionally and legally, that will still be independent. Ways can surely be found, just as they were in the 1920s to investigate Teapot Dome.

THE AGNEW CASE was fearlessly investigated, even though the former vice president was shown great leniency at the end. The matter of Howard Hughes' alleged contribution of $100,000 to Mr. Nixon, hoarded for years in a safety deposit box by Charles G. Rebozo and then returned, must be carefully explored. The financing of the president's houses and the terms of his income tax, however distasteful it is to have to pry into such matters, must now be clarified. Whatever we don't know, as in the Agnew case, must be brought to light before the country can regain confidence in its leadership.

The milk scandal, the ITT case, and the various other unexplained matters of special privilege have to see the light of day. When this is done, and we hope, when the president will have been cleared, we can breathe easier.

To ask for clarification is not to invite the restoration of respect.

MEANTIME, IN THIS search for facts, we must protect our basic institutions. For example, the doctrine of separation of powers and the right of executive privilege. These are not fictions. They are constitutional reality. But like all other rights, they are endangered when they are abused. To stretch executive privilege over criminal information is not a right use of power. But the power is there, and Congress and the courts cannot tear it down. The president is of course right in giving up the tapes, since he said long ago he would not shield criminality with executive privilege. He was wrong in delaying his decision so long.

I know plenty of judges and other lawyers who believe separation of powers protects the president in anything he does, and can be curbed only by the impeachment process. However true this may be in theory, in practice there are many ways in which the Congress moderates the power of the president, and vice versa, and both of them in regard to the courts. We have not only the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers, but we also have the system of checks and balances. Congress's great and unique power is that of appropriations, and if it wished to choke off the presidency, presumably it could do so by withholding funds.

None of these extremes is likely to be pressed. Balance and moderation are deep-seated American instincts in the operation of government. Their recent violation is at the heart of the present problem.

Perhaps this sense of decency, of the fitness of things, can return again to American political life. What was called absolutism when the Supreme Court was exercising great power a few years ago has now cropped up in the White House and might some day again show up in the Congress. The three branches, and the rest of us, can operate the system only with much moderation and mutual respect. That is what we need now.

Power Game In Middle East No Cuban Missiles Crisis

The world did not have another Cuban crisis last week, but it did go through an anxious nine hours on Thursday when bystanders were jolted by news of an American Grade 3 military alert.

Behind that anxious nine hours was a case example of great powers — U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. — managing a difficult though never dangerous problem in current power politics.

The problem arose out of the Middle East war. The first cease-fire went into effect on Monday evening. In theory both Arabs and Israelis were to stop where they were at the end of that day of fighting.

If they both had stopped, the new military boundaries on the Suez Canal front would have been of net advantage to Egypt. Her troops were strung out along most of the east bank of the canal, while the Israelis had a bridgehead on the west bank.

THAT FIRST CEASE-FIRE on Monday did not hold. On Tuesday the Israelis, claiming Egyptian provocation, took off south from their bridgehead. They drove right across the road and rail lines which connect Cairo to the City of Suez at the southern end of the canal, then operating as the supply base for Egypt's III Army Corps over on the east bank.

That Israeli advance on Tuesday made an enormous difference, not only in the military situation but also in bargaining positions. If the Israelis were to be allowed to put the Egyptian III Corps in their prisoner bag, Egypt would lose half of its initial gain from the war. (In the north it still held a strip on the east bank of the canal with adequate supplies.)

Not surprisingly, the Egyptians appealed to Moscow for help, and not surprisingly, the Russians did what they thought they safely could to be of help. It consisted of some well advertised alerting of Soviet airborne troops, to take "unilateral action" to restore the cease-fire if others would not go along.

In the simplest terms, Moscow called on Washington to restrain its client.

THIS PUT THE NIXON White House on an uncomfortable spot. It is reluctant to displease Israel's friends in the United States by applying pressure in Tel Aviv. It is even more reluctant to think of putting American troops into the Middle East frying pan. But neither would it want Russian troops taking up blocking positions between Egyptian and Israeli forces — all alone. In fact it doesn't want Russian troops out there anymore than it wants American troops out there.

So Washington answered Moscow's pawn moves with pawn moves of its own. It also moved a few troops around — conspicuously. And it advertised a changeover from the presently normal Grade 4 state of alert to the slightly higher Grade 3. There are five grades in which 5 is the lowest and one means war.

Then, as suddenly as the well-managed crisis broke, it subsided. Moscow said it would be happy to agree to a UN force of neutrals for the peacekeeping chores. So a moment of semi or pseudo crisis ended with the Israelis in a much improved military position along the Suez Canal, with Washington and Moscow a round older and more experienced in the technique of crisis management, and with the detente stronger, if anything, than before.

Even while all the excitement of Thursday was commanding top attention, Secy. of State Henry Kissinger was talking to Soviet leaders about ways and means of getting negotiations going about a long-term settlement of Arab and Israeli differences.

There seems to be little doubt that Moscow and Washington will work together in a major effort to induce their respective clients to think peaceably for a change.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 1, 1963

A military uprising overthrew the regime of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem in South Vietnam. Diem was placed under arrest. His brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, was assassinated.

Halloween turned ugly in Marin as bands of hoodlums battled police, attacked younger children, and did extensive damage in several cities.

Plans of the United States to store atomic bombs in Spain for defense "against a common enemy" were disclosed by Harold E. Talbott, secretary of the Air Force.

Judge Truman D. Johnson, the oldest American jurist to serve in the federal courts, died in Ogden, Utah, at the age of 95. He had served since appointment by President Woodrow Wilson in 1915.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

Random Thoughts On Women's Lib As Result Of Telephone Poll

It's enough to make a women's libber out of even the most chauvinist male reporter.

Making a random phone survey to find out Marin residents' views on various timely subjects sounds easy enough, but it isn't. Calling people at 8 a.m., one finds disconnected phones, busy lines, sleeping night workers, harassed mothers getting kids off to school and a host of other difficulties.

Finally when someone is willing to say what he thinks about Watergate, the reporter scribbles notes furiously, only to find out three pages later, "you certainly may not use my name in the paper."

ALL OF THIS PALES, however, in comparison to the response, "Well, I just don't know what to say, and my husband isn't home. . ."

I'll bet the owner of that whiny voice is the kind of lady who doesn't spare her husband the benefit of her views when he gets home at night.

If women's lib accomplishes nothing else, I hope that women of the future never will be tempted to fall into the copout of pretending that the men do all their thinking for them. And cop-out is all it is in most cases.

THERE'S ONE FIELD, though, that women's libbers better leave alone.

Anyone who has ever spent much time sitting in the criminal courts knows that treatment of men and women who have committed crimes has entirely different flavors.

The male judge takes a look at two dope dealers, for example. The woman partner may have been the mainstay of the operation — arranging buys, collecting money, emotionless over any tragedies for which she may have been responsible.

But the judge, who quickly sends her male partner to jail or prison, will view "the little lady" as a "nice girl who got involved with the wrong man."

"I'm sure she's learned her lesson," the judge will say with a benign smile as he grants the woman straight probation.

Even if she's unlucky enough to get sent to prison (for which she'll have to do something pretty heinous, have an awfully flagrant record or get a woman judge), she'll find much better quarters than most men convicts.

SAN QUENTIN is rapidly filling up its old South Block again with two men to each tiny cell. The cells are so small it seems one man must have to ask another if he can stand up.

A new book, "Women in Prison," describes the state's women's facility at Corona, and while not a place any of us would choose for a lengthy vacation, it sounds like Paradise compared to "Q." The company may not be so great, but at least the rooms are bigger and each gal gets her own cell.

Contaminated Beef Is Found

NORWALK, Conn. (UPI) —A spot check of supermarkets by local news organizations in seven cities revealed the presence of contaminating fecal bacteria in hamburger, Media & Consumer magazine said today.

The periodical said that the one-day sampling was not definitive "but the consumer has no present assurances ttat the ground beef he is purchasing is free of disease-producing organisms."

According to Media & Consumer, fecal bacteria was detected in samples from six of the seven cities, with more than 44 per cent of the samples in four cities —Philadelphia, Dayton, Ohio, Louisville, Ky., and St. Petersburg, Fla. —containing enough of the contaminated matter to be in violation of Oregon's legal standard for fecal coliform.

The law, recently put into effect, sets the standard for Escherichia coli (E. coli) at 50 organisms per gram. Consumers Union, a consumers' testing organization, considers 100 coliforms per gram a reasonable maximum. Media & Consumer said over 90 per cent of the samples from the seven cities contained more than this amount.

The magazine added that unless the hamburger was thoroughly cooked E. coli could cause food poisoning under certain conditions. Ground beef was chosen for the sampling because it is considered the best clue to sanitation in meat processing, according to Media & Consumer.

George Pollak, chief of the foods division for Consumers Union, publisher of Consumer Reports, which served as technical advisor in the survey, told United Press international today he considered the results of the survey a "mixed bag."

Pollak said he was surprised at those statistics which showed tremendous variation in bacterial contamination between different stores in the same cities.

"What is lacking is sufficient supervision by municipal authorities," he said. "If some stores can do it why can't others."

Pollack said a housewife buying a solid chunk of meat and grinding it in her own hand grinder at home would arrive at a lower E. Coli count than some of those revealed by the survey.

Spectacular Escape Frees IRA Leaders

DUBLIN (UPI) — A helicopter swooped down into a Dublin prison yard yesterday, picked up three key leaders of the Irish Republican Army and whirled away in the most sensational jail escape in Ireland's history.

Army troops and police immediately launched a nationwide manhunt for the fugitive IRA chiefs, the heavily armed hijackers and a man described as a "bogus" American filmmaker who rented the chopper.

The slick, James Bond-style operation at Mountjoy prison freed Seumus Twomey, the veteran IRA commander in Belfast, and two other IRA leaders, Joe O'Hagan and Kevin Mallon.

"It's just as well they didn't use a jumbo jet or they would have cleared the whole prison," said one police officer as the helicopter roared away in a storm of dust.

Premier Liam Cosgrave, described by his aides as "furious," called his cabinet into emergency session to discuss the escape.

Twomey, formerly in charge of the IRA's Belfast operation, took over as chief of staff of the extremist Roman Catholic group when Sean Macstiofain was sentenced to six months in jail. Twomey was jailed last month for a three year term.

The dramatic escape began just after 3 p.m. as 23 IRA prisoners were being exercised in the prison yard. Ten guards watched.

"A helicopter hovered overhead," a prison officer recalled. "But we did not pay it any attention. Suddenly it dropped onto the yard. We were stunned."

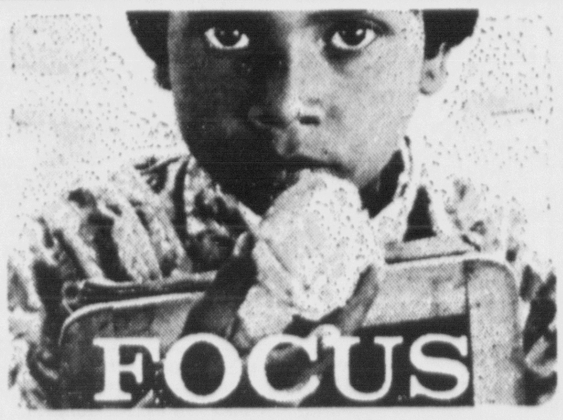

The doors of the helicopter were flung open and two men aimed guns at the guards. The prisoners formed a circle around the helicopter, allowing the IRA leaders to dash aboard before more guards could move in.

The helicopter then roared into the sky, exactly one minute after the intricately timed operation began. It landed at an unused race track and all the men except the pilot vanished in two waiting cars.

Police said the helicopter was hired from an Irish firm by an American filmmaker calling himself "Leonard." A spokesman said, "We are quite satisfied that he was bogus."

Annexation Study

The San Rafael Meadows Improvement Association, Inc. will meet in the Civic Center at 8 p.m. Tuesday to discuss possible annexation of the San Rafael Meadows to the City of San Rafael. The group will also elect officers for 1974.

Providing Protein

The UNICEF corn-soya-milk cake being eaten by this young girl in Bangladesh may be the only thing between her and protein malnutrition, the biggest single contributor to child death in the developing nations, where 25 to 30 per cent of the population dies before age 5. In its most extreme form, protein deficiency is known as kwashiorkor. Some children die from kwashiorkor; others are left with lifelong physical or mental damage. The problem may be with us for some time, as the world's population seems to be growing faster than its food supply.

A Fairly Calm Halloween Reported

Halloween was a pretty quiet affair last night in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties with only a few scattered pranks like egg-throwing and gushing fire hydrants reported.

San Anselmo police reported, though, that a child in that city was given a tiny wrapped chocolate bar into which a straight pin had been inserted.

The pin was removed and the child was not hurt, police said.

San Rafael police said "there was less activity reported than that which is handled during a normal weekend day."

One of the incidents reported was the placing of a log across Madrona Street, blocking traffic until it was removed.

Also in San Rafael, firemen said a prankster set fire to an awning on the Lincoln Market on Lincoln Avenue at about 8:45 p.m., but it was quickly extinguished.

In Central Marin, youngsters turned on fire hydrants in Corte Madera, Larskpur and Sleepy Hollow, but no damage was reported.

In Larkspur police officer Peter Doyle suffered a broken toe while pursuing a fleeing prankster, and a car was overturned in the Madera Shopping Center in Corte Madera.

Novato police said that some Novato High School students caught throwing plastic bags of paint against walls at San Marin High School were given cleaning materials and cleaned up the damage.

Petaluma police said they had 28 calls concerning Halloween mischief, but that it mainly involved egg throwing and broken pumpkins.

PRANK — Firemen extinguish a fire in the awning at the Lincoln Market in San Rafael which apparently had been set by a Halloween prankster. Overall, Halloween in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties was pretty quiet, according to police.

New Image Is Needed, Stock Boss

HOUSTON (UPI) — The chairman of the New York Stock Exchange yesterday said the security industry must improve its image and policies to attract the individual investor, who too often feels he is overlooked in favor of large institutions.

"Many of them feel they have been let down by corporate America," James H. Needham told business leaders before today's meeting of the exchange's board of directors. "Many of them have lost confidence in the fundamental processes of the private enterprise system."

The exchange was meeting for only the fourth time outside New York in an effort to boost membership and explain its role in the national economy.

He said the exchange also proposed increasing to $200 the dividend exclusion from federal taxes, and raising from $1,000 to $5,000 the maximum tax deduction against ordinary income for a capital loss.

The Rights Of A Debtor

"They can't just take my money!" exclaimed Jane Fondly. "I couldn't pay their bill because I didn't have enough money. Now I won't even have enough to live on!"

Jane had a little money in her checking account. The bank took it. They applied it to her unpaid account.

"Now we're even," said the bank.

"Not by my bookkeeping," said Jane. And took the case to court.

"This was a seizure of Jane's property without notice and without hearing," said her attorney. "She was denied due process of law."

The court agreed.

"Jane should have been given some kind of a hearing," the court said. "A banker's lien — a bank's right to collect its money on demand — is not valid. Jane should have been given a chance to show her checking account was exempt."

Now there must be some kind of judicial hearing where the debtor can assert his rights before property is taken from him.

Harry Hardluck tested this. He owed the hospital $3,200 for his wife's operation. And couldn't pay it. But he did have a paid-for 1970 car. The hospital filed suit and attached the car at the same time.

Harry went to the courts for help.

"Under a new law a debtor is allowed to have a hearing before property is repossessed," they said. "The creditor must 'show cause.' And the debtor has the chance to say why the property shouldn't be taken."

In some creditor cases there is a right of "setoff." If you owe money to someone and he owes you something the claims are set off. But if the parties disagree on the amounts that are to be setoff, there can be a court hearing.

Dollar Is Still Firm On Markets

LONDON (UPI) —The U.S. dollar today remained firm in quiet trading on the main European money markets that were open. Banks and exchanges in France, Belgium, Austria and Italy were closed for the All Saints religious holiday.

In Frankfurt, the dollar closed unchanged at 2.4510 marks median, the highest since Sept. 4, after a day with little or no trading.

In London, the afternoon fixing price was $97, down 25 cents from the morning fixing, and $1.25 on Wednesday night's close.

Death Of Pilot Possibly Planned

SANTA CRUZ (UPI) —There is "strong evidence" that the pilot of an airplane that crashed near Watsonville committed suicide, the Santa Cruz County deputy coroner says.

Donald Davis, the deputy, said yesterday government investigators could find no evidence of mechanical malfunction and that an autopsy ruled out a heart attack or similar physical failure for the pilot.

Glenn Pate, 52, the pilot, was a Watsonville chincilla rancher who was killed when a single engine plane crashed Sunday into a hill near his ranch.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Uterine Fibroids Found In Most Women, Rarely Malignant

Uterine fibroids grow slowly, rarely become malignant, and do not necessarily cause distress. They are common, and more so, in black women than in white women. One out of every four or five women harbors a fibroid after the age of 35. As a rule, more than one exists.

There appears to be a relationship between menstruation and the formation of fibroids. They develop after puberty, thrive during the period of ovarian activity, and regress after the menopause. In addition, the growths originate almost exclusively in that part of the uterus concerned with menstrual function. They may remain small, grow to fist size, or large enough to fill the pelvis.

FIBROIDS ARE in the wall of the uterus and the problems they cause depend upon the exact location. Those that protrude from the outer layers may attain tremendous size without altering menstruation. When the fibroid protrudes into the uterine cavity, bleeding, painful menstruation, pressure symptoms, and disturbances related to childbearing ensue. A malodorous discharge may also be troublesome. The woman cannot conceive or, it she does, miscarriage occurs. Smaller fibroids usually have no effect on pregnancy.

Large fibroids, regardless of location, produce pressure and varying degrees of discomfort. There may be a sensation of heaviness or undue weight in the pelvis. Pressure on the bladder causes urinary frequency. When the tumor pushed on the rectum, there may be constipation; pressure on the nerves leads to pain in the lower back or flanks.

AS A RULE, fibroids are diagnosed during a pelvic examination. When there is abnormal bleeding, a diagnostic dilatation and curettage (D & C) is done to rule out the possibility of a malignancy. In large tumors, surgery is recommended, especially when symptoms are severe, and the woman has had her family. The extent of the operation and whether the uterus should be removed abdominally or vaginally depends upon the experience and judgment of the surgeon.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, C-O the Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

HOW MUCH BEER?

G. writes: Is beering the worst thing you can do with high blood pressure?

REPLY

Drinking beer in moderation is not going to raise the pressure unless it increases weight or is consumed with pretzels. If you mean by beering, going from one pub to another until drunk — the blood pressure is sure to suffer.

FOOD, EXERCISE, SLEEP

H. T. M. writes: Do any foods or exercises promote sound sleep?

REPLY

The exercise expended in doing a good day's work is an excellent sedative. Foods do not play a role unless eating before bedtime or drinking coffee interferes with sleep.

NASAL CONGESTION

V.S. writes: I have an awful lot of trouble with sneezing and a stopped up nose but it's not a cold. Could this be due to nervousness?

REPLY

Yes—or allergy. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on allergic rhinitis.

PERIODIC HIP PAIN

M. Y. writes: I have been getting periodic pain in the hip and can't tell whether it is in the bone or muscle. Please suggest some causes of this condition.

REPLY

Arthritis, myositis, injury, tumors, bursitis, and synovitis are among the possibilities. X-rays and a thorough examination would be needed to make the diagnosis. If you are a betting man, take arthritis.

EATS LINT

Mrs. P. writes: A 4-year-old girl picks lint from sweaters and blankets and swallows it. Will this harm her intestines?.

REPLY

San Quentin House To Stay Open

The House, a facility which provides aid and comfort to families of San Quentin inmates, has raised enough money to continue its operation.

James D. Kilty, program chairman for the Catholic Social Service of Marin, which sponsors The House, said small donations had added up to "several hundred dollars."

In addition, he said the families who use the facility have increased donations which they put in a collection box and that amount currently is enough to pay for food served at The House.

In September, it had been feared The House might have to close this month because of finances. Donations now will tide the operation over until the end of the year, Kilty said, when it is hoped two foundations will grant money for continuing it.

"I know we'll make it," Kilty said.

The House opened in December 1971 to help families who come to the prison to visit relatives and often encounter problems with transportation, shelter or long waits for visits. Babysitting, snacks and meals also are provided to the families at The House, near the main gates of the prison.

Arts And Crafts Fair Scheduled

The annual West Marin Arts and Crafts Fair will be held Nov. 29 to Dec. 16 at the Sandcastle Gallery, 505 Mesa Road, Point Reyes Station.

The fair, open Thursday through Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., will feature pottery, jewelry, stained glass, leather goods and paintings.

Whooping Crane Hopes Are High

AUSTWELL, Tex. (UPI) — Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge officials hope there will be more whooping cranes spending the winter at the refuge last year.

Fifty-one of the cranes from the only wild flock in the world made the annual migration from the Canadian marshlands last year.

Lee Malatt, assistant manager of the refuge, said 37 of the birds had reached the winter grounds yesterday.

Rural Southern Sonoma Vote Set On Fire Protection Taxes

Rural Southern Sonoma residents will vote Tuesday on a proposed 22 cent increase in their fire protection tax rate.

Only those residents not served by special fire protection districts or city fire departments will vote on the measure.

A majority vote would increase the tax rate from the current 13 cents per $100 assessed valuation to a maximum rate of 35 cents.

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors has said the rate increase is necessary to maintain current fire protection services and meet new state standards. The law now requires two firemen, instead of one, for each truck.

Under a county agreement, the state Division of Forestry operates fire stations west of Petaluma and in Cloverdale and Healdsburg. Supervisors have said one of the three stations will be closed if additional tax money is not received.

Supervisors have estimated a tax rate of 17 cents per $100 assessed valuation will be needed in the near future to keep fire protection at its present level. The increase to a maximum of 35 cents was requested to assure adequate future service to avoid a series of special tax rate increase elections.

Priest To Wed A Former Nun

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) —The Akron Beacon Journal said Wednesday Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. Paul O'Connor of Youngstown, Ohio, who is resigning the priesthood to get married, will wed a former nun.

The newspaper identified Msgr. O'Connor's fiancee as Mary Dunn, 35, previously known as Sister Kathleen in the Sisters of Holy Humility, a nun for 17 years who is now working at an unspecified hospital in Massachusetts. She had been a nursing instructor at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Youngstown.

O'Connor, 43, chancellor of the six-county diocese since Dec. 2, 1966, made his resignation effective immediately so that he could apply for marriage through the Roman Curia.

Commissary Reopening Is Postponed

Reopening of the commissary at Hamilton Air Force Base, formerly scheduled for yesterday, has been postponed to about mid-December because of time needed to staff it.

According to a spokesman for Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, interviews for prospective employees of the commissary will be conducted by the Navy at the personnel office on the base at a date and time to be set.

The spokesman said 67 positions are open and former employees of the commissary will be given preference. Applications for jobs may be obtained from any federal office or post office and should be sent to Naval Supply Center, Code 21.1 S, Oakland, Calif., 94625, to the attention of Mrs. R. M. Goodwin.

Poorer Nation Funding Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, stressing U.S. responsibility to the less-developed nations, has asked Congress to appropriate an additional $1.5 billion to the International Development Association (IDA).

"Our position as a leader in promoting a more reasonable world order and our creditability as a negotiator would be seriously weakened if we do not take decisive and responsible action to assist those nations to achieve their aspirations toward economic develoopment," Nixon said in a message to Congress yesterday.

Nixon said unless IDA's funds were replenished it will run out of money by June 30. The organization has provided more than $6.1 billion in development credits to nearly 70 of the world's poorest nations during the last 13 years.

Additionally, Nixon asked for $50 million in additional funds for the Asian Development Bank. The United States has already committed $100 million to the Bank.

The U. S. contribution of $1.5 billion would be made in four yearly installments of $375 million begining in fiscal 1976.

The United States already has committed $100 million to the Asian bank and the $50 million request is for additional funds.

Nixon said other nations could not be expected to respond to urgings for more efficient trading and systems.

Beef Purchased For Hamburgers

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government today announced the purchase of enough ground beef to make 7,854,000 hamburgers for school children and said it is planning to buy frozen French fries on the side.

Agriculture Department officials said their latest frozen ground beef purchase for donation to schools, amounted to 1,309,000 pounds at a cost of $1,350,000.

A lunch specialist said the department began buying frozen French fries for donation to schools in 1971.

Iraq, Syria Refuse Visit By Kissinger

BEIRUT (UPI) —Iraq and Syria have refused to receive Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger during his forthcoming Middle East tour because of America's support for Israel during the October war, the Beirut newspaper Al Liwa said today.

The newspaper, quoting "informed Arab sources" said contacts — presumably by American officials —were established with the Iraqi and Syrian governments in attempts to arrange visits by Kissinger to Baghdad and Damascus.

But Al Liwa said both governments rejected the overtures.

It said Iraq's rejection was based on the following policy lines:

—Iraq has rejected the U.N. cease-fire resolution.

—The Iraq government condemns American support for Israel "which was shown in its ugliest form through the huge military and financial aid which the Nixon government poured into the Zionist state during and after the fighting."

The newspaper said Syria refused to receive Kissinger in order "to express Damascus' attitude toward America's anti-Arab policy."

"The Syrian reply to the contacts which took place to prepare the visit was that the Syrian government has nothing to discuss with the American Secretary of State," Al Liwa said.

Both Iraq and Syria are ruled by Baathist socialist regimes and are close friends of Moscow, which has supplied them with large quantities of arms and other aid.

Kuhn Places A's Owner Finley On Probation

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bowie Kuhn, the baseball commissioner, finally has flexed his muscles.

Yesterday he placed Oakland owner Charles O. Finley on indefinite probation and pointedly warned him that next time he may come down on him with both feet.

Kuhn has not only fined Finley $7,000 and put him on probation for three separate actions during the world series, but has threatened him with much stiffer punishment if he commits another misstep.

Next time, Kuhn has notified Finley he may hit him with Article 1 of the Major League Agreement.

One of the provisions of that article gives the commissioner the power to remove any officer of a major league club if he deems it to be in the best interest of baseball.

"Yes, I have paid the $7,000," acknowledges Finley. "I have sent him (Kuhn) a check with a letter of protest and I'm requesting a hearing before the executive council of baseball as soon as possible.

"I have been notified about my probation and have no comment on that at this time. Nor do I have any comment about what the commissioner says he might do next time."

Finley, however, did have some comments about his fine, probably the largest against any owner in all baseball history.

One of his comments dealt with reserve second baseman Mike Andrews, who cost the A's the second world series game with the New York Mets because of a pair of errors. For the manner in which Finley tried to place Andrews on the disabled list, Kuhn fined him $5,000.

"They said I fired Mike Andrews, but I didn't," insists Finley. "We had waivers on him. Last Friday we asked unconditional release waivers on him. Any club can claim him for a dollar. Those waivers expire at noon today. If nobody claims him, he's a free agent."

What it means is Andrews has no job anymore.

"This is further proof that the man is disabled, and that's all we really were saying when we asked for a substitute," said Finley. "For that I was fined $5,000."

Kuhn did not announce Finley's probation publicly. He revealed it instead in a letter he wrote to Finley last Friday. The commissioner also sent a copy of the letter to Joe Cronin and Charles "Chub" Feeney, the two league presidents; all the major league owners and presidents and all the general managers.

"The Oakland club is hereby to remit the sum of $7,000, its check to be received here no later than Nov. 1, 1973," Kuhn said in the letter mailed to Finley from his office.

"I also determined that you personally shall be placed on probation until further notice and warn you that further conduct not in the best interest of baseball may lead to disciplinary action against you as provided in Article 1 of the Major League Agreement."

Another provision of Article 1 enables the commissioner to deprive a major league official from attending the joint meetings. The provision was used to force out a former National League owner 30 years ago after he had been found to be associating with known gamblers.

Kuhn now has fined Finley three different times. He fined him during the players' strike two years ago for remarks Kuhn considered uncalled for and shortly thereafter again for Finley's actions during a lengthy bitter holdout session with A's lefthander Vida Blue.

A Man Against Night Fishing

Keith Fraser, co-owner of Loch Lomond Live Bait and Tackle Shop in San Rafael and ace striper fisherman, is again trying to persuade the California Fish and Game Commission that night fishing for striped bass is an evil thing.

As he did last year when the commission was considering opening the bay waters for night fishing, Fraser has penned a letter to the commission in opposition to night fishing. The commission last year made it legal to fish for stripers at night from land, but ruled out fishing from boats. That group is considering a proposal to allow night fishing from boats at its Dec. 7 meeting in Sacramento.

Being in the fishing business, Fraser realizes there would be a financial gain with more anglers fishing at night, but he's looking at the long range picture and feels the stripers' days would be numbered if they were made easy prey at night.

Said part of Fraser's letter:

"THE PREDICTABLE FUTURE of the striped bass in local bay and Delta waters has not appreciably changed. It remains very bleak. Pollution, the primary culprit, still takes a vast toll on the striper population. The California Water Plan, by which Delta water (and small bass and eggs and some of the stripers' natural food) is being 'piped' in huge quantities to southern California, continues to loom as a potential knockout blow to the dwindling bass population. And yet, although most knowledgeable experts (including Leon Adams, author of 'Striped Bass Fishing in California and Oregon') agree that the striper population has drastically decreased in the past 10 years, the Department of Fish and Game is incredibly again recommending to the Fish and Game Commission the legalization of night fishing from boats in San Francisco and San Pablo bays. If this is approved. . . it can only serve to further decrease the rapidly dwindling striped bass population in California.

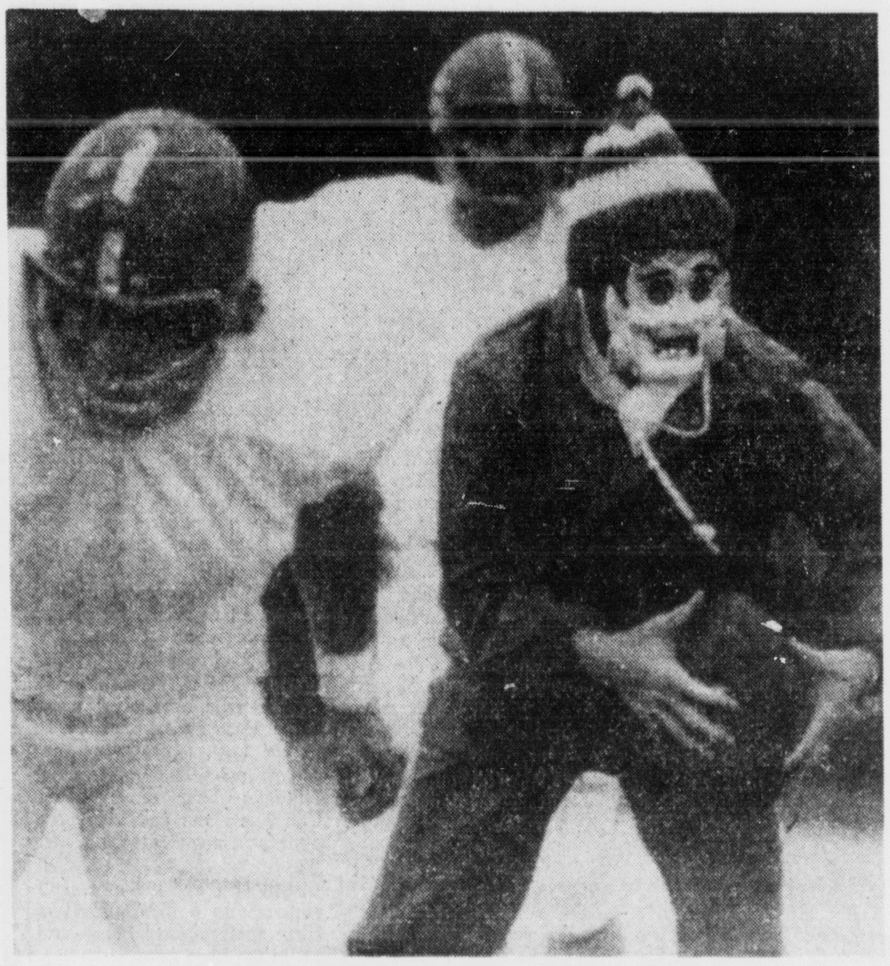

". . . Although I have not talked to party boat skippers, some of whom must be 'licking their chops' in anticipation of being able to take two or three boatloads of anglers per night under the lights of one of the Bay Area bridges, I can honestly report that I have not spoken to one person who has expressed anything but disgust concerning the possibility of legal night fishing from boats in local waters."

FRASER'S LETTER went on to explain how bass fishing becomes "red hot" during the last half hour of legal time when "the lights go on and the schools of bass come to the surface to feed on the bait attracted by the lights." Fraser also brought up the problems of law enforcement and the advantage given to poachers.

"How could the wardens possibly patrol this vast area adequately at night? A person with the slightest knowledge about fishing in the area of San Francisco-San Pablo Bay could probably talk at great length about the almost insurmountable problems that will confront wardens who attempt to enforce the fishing regulations at night. The poachers will be out in force.

"MY FINAL GRIPE about the possibility of the legalization of night fishing in local waters concerns the undeniable safety hazard caused by the many skiffs, small craft, large craft and party boats darting around the bay at night. And to make it worse, some of these boats will be anchored at various spots. It's inevitable. Even the staunchest of night fishing advocates would probably agree that collisions and drownings will occur."

That letter will give the commissioners some food for thought.

Substitution Highlights Soccer Day

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI) — The Latin American all-star team won the first World Football Day Trophy yesterday, defeating the European all-stars in a game that made soccer history.

Staged under special rules that permitted unlimited substitution, the encounter featured 36 of the world's top soccer stars from 21 countries —the greatest number who ever played in a game under the jurisdiction of FIFA, the World Football Federation.

The players scored 13 goals —an unusually high number for top class soccer. And more than 100 million viewers watched it on a television hookup that carried the game live into homes in 20 European and Latin American countries.

Here it is, anyway: Latin America won on penalty kicks, 3-2, after the two teams had tied, 4-4, at the end of regular playing time.

The game, played in Barcelonas Nou Camp stadium, offered a dazzling display of fireworks by such stars as Dutchman Johan Cruyff, whom Barcelona bought from Ajax for a record $2.4 million earlier this year, by Portugal's Eusebio da Silva, Brazil's Paulo Cesar and Roberto Rivelhino and Peru's Teofilo Cubillas.

NO UNITAS SIGNING

Steelers 'Satisfied' With QB Situation

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —Veteran quarterback Johnny Unitas, now with the San Diego Chargers, is a native of Pittsburgh who was drafted and let go by the Steelers 18 years ago before he had a chance to play for them.

Yesterday the Pittsburgh Press carried a story implying the Steelers were interested in signing Unitas. Not so, said team vice president Dan Rooney.

Rooney confirmed he had been contacted by the Chargers about Unitas' purchase, but said he rejected the offer out of hand. He said the club was "very satisfied" with the quarterback situation,, despite a shoulder injury that has sidelined starter Terry Bradshaw indefinitely.

"We did not have any discussions with them (the Chargers) because there was nothing to discuss," Rooney said. "Basically, we hope we can go with the quarterbacks we have.

"At the press luncheon Monday, Coach Chuck Noll said he was confident Terry Hanratty and Joe Gilliam could handle the quarterbacking of our team."

Bradshaw may be out four to six weeks and Hanratty also was injured Sunday in the Steelers' victory over Cincinnati. He suffered severe rib bruises and but was expected to play next Monday night when Pittsburgh hosts the Washington Redskins.

Gilliam was activated by the Steelers after the injury to Bradshaw. If anything happened to Hanratty or Gilliam, Rooney said "obviously we would try to get another quarterback."

Petaluma Wins Harrier Meet

VALLEJO — Petaluma High School yesterday took its third consecutive North Bay League cross-country title at Dan Foley Park with a 16-point victory over runner-up Montgomery High of Santa Rosa.

The Trojans finished with 51 points, Montgomery was second with 67, Napa third with 72, Ukiah fourth with 81 and Santa Rosa fifth with 101.

The individual winner was Jon McDaniel of Napa, with Petaluma's Duo of Jon Sisler and Dan Aldridge finishing second and third.

San Diego Asked To Purchase The Padres

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — City councilman Bob Martinet wants the city of San Diego to purchase the San Diego Padre franchise if no private bidder could be found.

Martinet said Wednesday city acquisition of the beleaguered franchise was a better alternative then leaving the city-owned San Diego stadium dark for five months each year. The stadium also is used by the San Diego Charger football club.

Martinet cited "tremendous cost" to the city if the team was to move. Loss of revenue from the Padres would increase the amount the city must pay annually on the stadium bonds.

A Los Angeles group headed by racetrack operator Marjorie Everett said Monday it was giving up its attempt to purchase the franchise because it could not gain sufficient financial concessions from the city to make the project economically feasible.

Two other groups reportedly are now investigating purchase of the ball club from financier C. Arnholt Smith.

AGAINST TAM TOMORROW

Redwood Tries Resuming March To Football Title

After a drastic interruption last weekend, Redwood High School will try to resume its march to the Marin County Athletic League football championship tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. at Tamalpais.

The Giants carry a 3-1 CMAL record into the contest against winless Tam (0-3), but must rebound from a 12-0 loss to Novato which probably cost them an undisputed title.

"We just were outblocked and outtackled the other day," said Redwood coach Phil Roark. "Practice wasn't too good Monday, but we came to life Tuesday."

"We want to get an upset before the end of the season," said Tam coach Jess Racines, whose squad fell to San Marin last weekend, 21-6. "We want to be the spoiler. It's homecoming, and spirit is up at school."

Redwood will start Ken Fox at halfback in place of Mark Richter, the MCAL's No. 2 rusher, who has missed practice with the flu. Richter will start at defensive cornerback. The Giants return Mark Hagberg, who missed the Novato game with a slight concussion sustained Saturday morning, but lose wide receiver Cully Fredricksen with a concussion sustained against the Hornets. Hagberg will play defensive end, but Roger Nelson will take over his center spot.

Tam's chief offensive threat is running back Kevin Murphy, who gained 94 yards rushing against San Marin and leads the MCAL's pass receivers with 23 catches for 246 yards.

Probable starting lineups:

Redwood: (Offense) SE Eric Gabrielson, LT Mike Roush, LG Pete Massoletti, C Roger Nelson, RG Doug Kern, RT Mike Tessin, TE Doug MacRae, QB John Troppmann, FB Bill Edralin, LH Ken Fox, RH Ed Andersen. (Defense) RE John Lister, LT Kern, RT Roush, RE Mark Hagberg, LLB MacRae, MLB Massoletti, MLB Troppmann, RLB Mark Bartlett, LC Mark Richter, RC Andersen, S Gabrielson.

Raiders' Defense Geared

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Raiders are gearing their defenses this week to stop a couple of guys named Johnson who play for the New York Giants.

Top running back Ron Johnson has picked up 399 yards on 119 carries to power the Giants running attack while quarterback Randy Johnson sizzled last week in completing 28 passes for 348 yards and a touchdown in a 35-27 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals.

This marks the first game of the season for the Raiders at the Oakland Coliseum. Their 12-7 triumph over the Miami Dolphins was at nearby Berkeley.

A 3-Game Losing String For Seals

ATLANTA (UPI)—The California Golden Seals have been shocked by a short circuit in the "French Connection" line of the Buffalo Sabres.

Playing without star center Gil Perreault who broke a leg Sunday night, the Sabres defeated the Seals 3-2 last night behind the three-goal effort of Rick Martin. Martin, Perreault and Rene Robert comprised the high-scoring "French Connection" line.

Tonight the Seals try to snap a three-game losing streak by tackling the Flames at Atlanta. The Flames started California on the skids with a 3-1 win in Oakland Friday night.

Martin moved into second place in the National Hockey League scoring behind Boston's Phil Esposito by tallying in each period as the Sabres outshot the Seals 35-19. Martin has 10 goals and 19 points this season.

Breakthrough In Drugs For Sports

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP) — Victory in the war against anabolic steroids — illegal drugs by which athletes build up their bodies — is within sight according to the British.

British scientists say they now can detect when any athlete has been using the outlawed "bulk bombs."

Dr. Roger Bannister, chairman of the British Sports Council, said the problem should be under control before the 1976 Olympics.

A group of British scientists, after three years of research, has devised what it claims is a new and sure way of testing athletes for "bombs."

Some sports writers told about the new anti-doping discoveries at a news conference yesterday, were skeptical.

They wanted to know about the time lag. If an athlete takes steroids in training, then stops before a big meet, how long will he remain open to discovery?

Bannister wouldn't say. Nor would Professor Raymond Brooks, leader of the research group.

Bannister said: "One way to frighten the athlete would be to have snap checks without warning at periodic intervals, not only when an athlete is competing but also during his training.

"This is not beyond the competence of international federations in East Germany, Russia and the United States, where there is the greatest area of abuse."

But suppose international sports federations demand periodic checks on athletes training behind the Iron Curtain? How can they be sure tests are carried out fairly?

Jim Manning, one of Britain's leading sports writers, said: "I fear that in the end everything will depend on the honesty of nations and of national sports associations.

"We know from bitter experience that one-half of the world cheats more than the other half.

"It seems to me inevitable that keeping athletic medical records mandatorily will put honest nations at an even greater disadvantage compared with dishonest nations than they are at present."

If the claims of the British research group are true, it is a massive breakthrough for the cause of honesty in sports.

Until now, anabolic steroids have been outside of scientific detection. An athlete could take them until the day before competing, and nobody knew.

Many sports observers believe the sharp rise in athletic performance over the last 20 years has been helped by "bombs" that could not be detected.

Manning, commenting on what he called "The Steroid Era, 1952 to 1972," said there had been improvements of 19 to 27 per cent in men's throwing and 25 to 37 per cent in women's throwing at the Olympics.

Admitting there had been big advances in physical preparation and technique, Manning added:

"But there is still room for attribution of the substantial improvement to bulk bombs. Certainly athletes themselves believe it, and the huge, often grotesque, appearance of some athletes seems due to factors other than being born that way.

ABA ROUNDUP

Gilmore Draws Compliments

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

As the old saying goes, it takes one to know one. Wilt Chamberlain knew a great center when he saw one last night.

"I was very, very, very, impressed with the Colonels and especially Artis Gilmore," Chamberlain said after Kentucky had blitzed his San Diego Conqusitadors 146-105. "Gilmore means everything to that team on defense and on the boards.

Dan Issel led the Colonels with 25 points and teammate Mike Gale had a career-high of 23.

The Colonels, beaten just once in nine games this season, widened their lead over second place Carolina in the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division to 1 ½ games as the Cougars lost a 101-99 overtime decision to the San Antonio Spurs. The Denver Rockets overcame a 17-point deficit to nip the New York Nets 107-104 in the only other ABA game.

Gilmore, who pulled down 25 rebounds and scored 17 points, expressed great disappointment that Chamberlain is being relegated to coaching duties by a court order obtained by the Los Angeles Lakers of the NBA.

"I'd love to see him out there," the Colonels' 7-foot-2 center said. "There's a lot I could learn from playing against him."

"There's no doubt about it," chimed in Kentucky Coach Babe McCarthy. "The fans are really being cheated by not getting a chance to see two great centers like Artis and Wilt go against each other."

James Silas popped in a 15-foot jump shot with four seconds left in overtime to give San Antonio its victory over Carolina. Silas scored six of his total 15 points in the overtime period after Carolina's Jim Chones tied the game at 91 with a free throw at the end of regulation play.

Rich Jones was the top scorer for San Antonio with 22 and Joe Hamilton added 21 while Billy Cunningham had 30 points and Joe Caldwell hit 21 for Carolina.

San Diego Coach Tom Nissalke was ejected from the game for two technical fouls and a fight broke out between San Antonio's Jerry Chambers and Carolina's Dennis Wuycik that brought both teams onto the court.

Eight points by rookie Mike Green in the final four minutes sparked Denver's comeback win over New York. His final basket provided the winning points with 51 seconds left.

NFL Stats Show O.J. Is Halfway

NEW YORK (AP) — O.J. is halfway.

O.J. Simpson, the brilliant running back of the Buffalo Bills who set a National Football League record earlier this year with a 250-yard game, set another one last Monday night when he ran for 157 yards against Kansas City.

He thus became the first player in the history of the league to surpass 1,000 yards in seven games.

He has 1,025 in his pursuit of Jim Brown's 1963 season record of 1,863 yards. And, of course, Simpson continues to be the runaway American Football Conference rushing leader. Runner-up Essex Johnson of Cincinnati has 580, 10 more than third-place Eugene (Mercury) Morris of Miami.

The National Football Conference leader, Calvin Hill of Dallas, has 662 yards.

The passing leaders are Oakland's Ken Stabler in the AFC and John Hadl of Los Angeles in the NFC.

In pass-receiving, Ed Podolak of Kansas City and Fred Willis of Houston have 32 catches apiece to lead the AFC, with Podolak's worth 264 yards in Willis' 219.

In the NFC, Harold Carmichael of Philadelphia took over first place with 38 receptions for 558 yards, surpassing Washington's Charley Taylor, who has 36 for 507.

Other leaders include rookie Ray Guy of Oakland, the No. 1 punter with a 45.6-yard average, Bill Thompson of Denver, the top punt returner with an average carry of 14.1 yards, Carl Garrett of Chicago with a 34-yard kickoff return average, Mike Wagner of Pittsburgh with five interceptions and place-kicker David Ray of Los Angeles, the top scorer with 65 points.

Ali Shows Jaw Isn't Broken Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Muhammad Ali's jaw is not broken again. Just listen.

"If there was something wrong with my jaw I'd be in a hospital. I just chewed a steak dinner. How can I chew a steak dinner with a broken jaw? What's all this fuss about anyway?

"People get their jaw broke everyday. People die everyday in Israel and Egypt. But the whole world wants to know if I hurt my jaw. Two people are dead on the street in Philadelphia. Sixteen die on the George Washington Bridge and my tooth hurts and the whole world's got to know. It shows you what this country is all about. I feel guilty. Lord have mercy.

"All this attention, for what? This shows you how messed up the world is. A plane crashes with 96 people on it and some little colored fighter like me gets all the headlines. People die in wars. This is serious. All this attention over a boxing match...this shows you how fickle the people of the world are.

"I'll be glad when I retire."

Ali talked non-stop for close to 45 minutes yesterday as he denied the story earlier in the week that said he had reinjured his jaw, broken eight months ago by Ken Norton. When he had finished no one doubted his jaw was in fine working order.

An examination by Dr. Harry Kleiman of the New York State Athletic Commission found Ali's jaw to be in good condition.

"He's got an excellent bite," said Kleiman. "It appears that a permanent bridge came loose."

Rumors began to circulate Monday that the reason Ali's exhibition tour of Asia had been canceled was because the former champion had reinjured his jaw. Ali had been bothered by a bad tooth but the real reason for the cancelation was because promoters were talking a bath at the gate.

Ali had traveled to Jakarta, Indonesia, and defeated Rudi Lubbers on Oct. 20 in a warmup for his return with Joe Frazier at Madison Square Garden on Jan 28.

"The fight itself ain't nothin'," said Ali as he turned his attention to Frazier. "One win and one lose."

As easily as Ali talked about defeat, his pride wouldn't let him get to carried away with another loss to Frazier.

"I've got to give Joe Frazier a good whuppin'," said Ali. "Get him in that ring and whup him good. I made him famous. In Indonesia they run around and say, 'Joe Frazier, Joe Frazier.

"Boxing...it's dead. The game is nothin' without me. George Foreman's still settin'. I'm the man. Now I'm waitin' for Smokin' Joe."

USC's Davis Is Not In A Slump

BERKELEY (UPI) — USC comes to play Cal this Saturday the Trojan publicist Don Anderson wants to make it perfectly clear that reports that tailback Anthony Davis is in a slump have been exaggerated.

"A.D. is well ahead of his pace last year," Anderson notes. "In seven games last year, he had gained 356 yards; this year he has 572.

He wound up with 1,191 yards in 1972, the first Trojan soph ever to gain over 1,000 yards. He will be hard-pressed to match that figure this time around unless he matches his fantastic finish of last year which saw him gain 206 yards against Oregon, 195 against Washington State, 178 against UCLA, 99 (and 218 in kickoff returns) in a six-touchdown burst against Notre Dame, and 157 in the Rose Bowl.

Observers have pointed out that a young USC offensive line is only now beginning to play together but Davis also points out, "I've been a marked man. I'm the one who received the publicity and I'm the one the other people have been keying on."

"All I can do is continue to run hard. The line is coming. Our timing is better and I feel like things are beginning to fall into place."

WHA Life Enjoyable For Bernier

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Serge Bernier apparently likes life in the World Hockey Association.

Bernier, who jumped from the National Hockey League Los Angeles Kings last season, assisted on three goals last night to become the WHA scoring leader as he led the Quebec Nordiques to a 5-1 victory over the Vancouver Blazers.

Bernier lifted his point total to 19 when he set up a goal by Alain Caron in the first period and two by Jean-Guy Gendron and Alain Beaule in the final period.

Jean Gilbert and Rejean Houle scored power play goals for Quebec in the first period to give the Nordiques a 3-0 lead.

The victory lifted Quebec into first place in the WHA's East Division and marked the fifth straight loss for Vancouver.

In the only other WHA game, Russ Walker, playing his first season of pro hockey, scored two goals and defenseman Larry Hillman had three assists to spark the Cleveland Crusaders to a 6-4 victory over the Winnipeg Jets.

Celtics, Knicks Hope They've Regained Their Winning Ways

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Boston Celtics and New York Knicks hope they've regained their winning ways.

The two finalists in last season's Eastern Conference championship playoff both got off to poor starts this year in the National Basketball Association with Boston winning only four of its first seven games and New York splitting its first eight contests.

However, the Celtics drubbed Cleveland 128-110 and the Knicks whipped Houston 102-91 last night. In the only other game, Detroit beat Seattle 114-107, sending the SuperSonics down to their fifth straight defeat.

Boston, which lost to Cleveland Sunday night, had seven players in double figures as it regained first place over idle Buffalo in the Atlantic Division. Dave Cowens and John Havlicek led the way with 21 points apiece. Austin Carr, whose three-point play in the closing seconds helped Cleveland beat Boston Sunday, led the Cavs with 26 points.

Dave DeBusschere's 21 points and 20 by Willis Reed paced New York over Houston as the Knicks avenged a one-point loss to the Rockets earlier this season. Mike Newlin topped Houston with 21 points.

Dave Bing tallied 13 of his 26 points in the fourth quarter to help Detroit hold off Seattle. Bing notched five points after the Sonics closed to 85-84 and then scored six more in the final two minutes of play when the Pistons' lead was cut to 102-99. Curtis Rowe backed Bing with 23 points while Seattle's Fred Brown led all scorers with 31 and teammate Spencer Haywood chipped in with 28.

Soccer Victory

Mount Tam School of Ross (8-1-2) scored two fourth quarter goals to defeat Lick Wilmerding of San Francisco 4-3 in a soccer match at Golden Gate Park yesterday. Andy Speigel scored three goals for Mount Tam.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

Control Thyself

By LEE TREVINO

It happens all the time . . . a guy sprays a shot into the briar patch, and immediately is transformed from golfer to Godzilla. He tries to crush his next shot.

When you hit a bad shot, assume it's merely one of the mistakes that Ben Hogan says even great players expect in 18 holes. If it lands in the boonies, don't try to drive the green with your next shot. Advance the ball to the fairway, then go for the green. Take your bogey.

I guarantee there's a 20 per cent chance the guy you're playing will make bogey, too. There's even a chance you can win the hole with a bogey.

A common mistake when a player skulls a shot is that he won't aceept his penalty and his bogey. He tries to get cute and hit his "career" shot. So he winds up with a blankety-blank and starts looking for a sharp instrument.

The trouble with a guy straining to overcome a bad shot is he's liable to hit two bloopers in a row. His mind ain't loose. He's boiling inside (el stupido, hombre!) and his muscles are knotted up like a sailor's underwear. So take it easy, Elmo. You'll find the flag quicker and easier.

Napa Visits Petaluma Tomorrow

For Petaluma High School, it will be a case of jumping from the proverbial frying pan into the fire tomorrow night at 8 o'clock when the Trojans host North Bay League football visitor Napa High School.

Last Friday, the Trojans gave themselves a little breathing room by beating the then NBL co-leader Vallejo High School, 15-14, to take over sole possession of first place. But, as Petaluma head coach Tony Kehl says "This (the Napa game) will be as big, or bigger for us than Vallejo." Petaluma is 4-0 in league play.

Napa is one game behind Petaluma at 3-1, and a victory for them could put the Indians back into the running for the championship and possibly throw the NBL race into a three-way tie provided Vallejo beats Montgomery of Santa Rosa tomorrow night.

The Indians are a powerful offensive team which has scored 104 points in league play, while surrendering 75 points.

The undefeated Trojans have not been on the scoreboard as much as Napa, but they have limited league opponents to a mere 39 points — an average of 9.75 points per game.

Saturday afternoon, the remaining local teams play as Rancho Cotate High School host Sonoma County League foe Healdsburg High School in Rohnert Park, Tomales treks to Kelseyville for a North Central League II battle, St. Vincent of Petaluma visits NCL II rival Upper Lake and Casa Grande of Petaluma hosts Analy of Sebastopol in a non-league game at Durst Field.

PREP NOTEBOOK

Confrontation In San Marin Hills

By LEW CODDINGTON

One of the most exciting sports confrontations of the fall will take place next Tuesday, but it will be well hidden from public view in the hills surrounding San Marin High School.

The event is a cross country meet involving Redwood and San Rafael high schools, upon which the Marin County Athletic League championship will ride.

Redwood's dominance in recent years is being severely challenged by San Rafael, which won the first dual meet between the schools Sept. 26, 25-30, and went on to post a 10-0 record so far. Redwood is 9-1.

Predicting the outcome of Tuesday's meet requires an advanced degree in soothsaying. Attempting to figure it out by the stopwatch is futile, as San Rafael coach Dave Dwight found out Saturday.

Dwight timed the teams' runners at the Pleasant Hill Invitational meet and scored the results as if it were a dual meet. The result was a 28-28 tie. The order of finish would have been Ray Green (San Rafael), Dave Brainerd (Redwood), Tom Stibich (SR), Kevin Glasner (R), Tom O'Reilly (SR), Ed Phelps (R), Pete Demarais (R), Brooke Chesnut (SR), Mike Killeen (R), Scott Hickman (R) and Brian McCurdy (SR).

In two other big invitational meets, Redwood "beat" San Rafael under a similar scoring system.

San Rafael's unbeaten frosh-soph team is 7-0, but Redwood is 6-1 and can tie for the title with a victory. The first meeting resulted in a 24-31 San Rafael victory.

Tamalpais' girls' team is 8-1 and should pick up another victory over Drake Tuesday. With a double victory Tuesday, Redwood also will finish 9-1. In two previous meetings between the posers, Redwood won the first, 26-31, and Tam took the second, 26-30.

The league's leading frosh-soph runner is Aran Collier, the freshman from Tamalpais, who has broken records on most courses this year. He follows, quite swiftly, in the footsteps of his brothers Malcolm and Vian.

The closest Collier came to losing was against Redwood, when Hal Schulz led him 70 yards from the finihs. Schulz took a wrong turn, and Collier hollared at him to get back on the track, Collier won by a half a second.

Freshman runners, incidentally, will compete Friday at 3:15 p.m. in an MCAL freshman race on a two-mile course at Lagunitas Lake.

The premier girl, this year as last, is Kate Keyes of Tamalpais, who has lost only once.

GETTING SHORT — Time and circumstance are conspiring against Redwood's Tom Schindler in his bid to set the MCAL single-season scoring record in water polo.

This time last week, Schindler had 65 goals and was in hot pursuit of the record of 98 for a 12-game season, set last year by San Rafael's Mike Kamler.

Tom was held to four last Friday and two this Tuesday, however, and now has 71 with two games left. Schindler's 71 have come in only nine games, since Novato forfeited its Sept. 28 clash to Redwood due to an insufficient number of players.

That fact put Redwood coach Dennis Untermann in a terrific bind. Coaching etiquette dictates that stars like Schindler be removed once the score becomes lopsided, as often happens in the MCAL, but it's hardly fair to Schindler to pull him out when he had already been deprived of one game due to the forfeit.

NIGHT SOCCER — San Rafael and Terra Linda High Schools will play another night soccer game this week. It's scheduled Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at San Rafael.

The teams did it once last year and once earlier this year. Terra Linda, the league leader with an 8-1 record, won the previous 1973 clash, 3-0.

WHO WILL WIN ? — With three weeks to go, four teams still are in contention for the MCAL football title. Any of the teams will become co-champion by winning all its remaining games, but the question of who will go to the Top of the Bay Bowl is more complicated.

If two teams tie for the title, the winner of the game between them will be chosen to face the North Bay League champion Nov. 23 at San Rafael High.

Terra Linda lost to Redwood, Redwood lost to Novato, Novato lost to Drake, and Drake lost to non-contender San Rafael.

Drake is the only team which can win the bowl bid by itself, but the Pirates must knock off Terra Linda, Redwood and San Marin to do so. Novato's remaining schedule contains San Rafael, San Marin and Terra Lnda. The Trojans have, in order, Drake, Tamalpais and Novato. Redwood, 3-1 to the others' 2-1, has Tam and Drake left.

Harry Trump was the most reasonable of bridge guests.
New cards and Early Times.
Emil Frostbutt knew this.
On September 28, 1972, the cards in Frostbutt's posh game room were still in the cellophane.
But the bourbon.....
for some never-to-be-determined reason, Frostbutt had not ordered Early Times.
That night, for the first time in years, Emil Frostbutt played bridge without Harry.
No Early Times.
No Trump.

6 Million Homes Headed By Women

CHICAGO (UPI) — About six million American families with children under the age of 18 now are headed by women, says GSI, Inc., a unit of Esmark, Inc.

Households with women at the helm represent approximately 12 per cent of all U.S. families, the study says. More women are becoming the sole support of the family because of divorce, widowhood and deepening economic pressures, it adds.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Future Is Favorable For Avco

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. After Avco Corp. (NYSE) had declined 45 per cent, I bought 100 shares in 1969. It has since dropped another 75 per cent. Is there any hope for recovery? My biggest gripe is that they do not issue regular quarterly reports, which makes it extremely difficult to keep track of progress — or lack of it. — S.H.

A. First of all, Avco publishes a "Shareholders Newsletter" on a quarterly basis. You should write to Matthew J. Shevlin, Vice President and Treasurer, Avco Corp., 1275 King Street, Greenwich, CT 06830, requesting to be placed on the mailing list.

Avco has recently reported nine-month results. Before extraordinary charges of $3.57 per share, earnings were $1.90 per share versus $1.70 in 1972. After deducting the write-off for its investment and costs in 32 per cent-owned Cartridge Television. Avco had a deficit of $1.67 a share for the period. Sales were up 15 per cent year to year. This former aerospace company has changed substantially in the last five years, with financial services now the principal contributor to profits. This area accounted for 91 per cent of earnings last year compared with 36 per cent five years ago. Because of its heavy involvement in insurance, consumer loans and credit cards, a slowdown in the economy in 1974 would probably have a minimal effect on earnings as the interest rate spread would be favorable to the company. Shares are worth retaining for continued recovery.

Q. What has happened to Sanitas Services on the American Stock Exchange? — B.E.

A. After an announcement by the company of an expected $1.3 million loss for fiscal 1973, the SEC suspended trading in the shares. Trading was halted by the ASE on Sept. 19 pending a review of the audited results for the year ended June 30, 1973. The SEC subsequently suspended over-the-counter trading and has extended the ban several times since then. The ban applies to the firm's convertible debentures as well.

Bargain Hunters Active On The Stock Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI)—Selective bargain hunting following two days of sharp declines turned stocks mixed in moderate trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

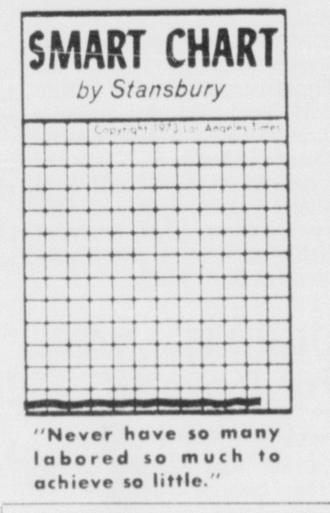

After three days of an extensive technical pullback, analysts said some investors were attracted to those groups that were hit hardest Tuesday and yesterday — the glamors, computers, and semiconductors. Among them, Polaroid, Bausch & Llomb and Avon Products each added a point or more, Burroughs 3 ⅜, IBM, Texas Instruments, Fairchild Camera and National Semiconductor more than a point apiece.

Amid increasing talk of oil and natural gas shortages, Getty rose 4 ½, Atlantic Richfield 3 ½, Natomas 3 ⅛, Mountain Fuel Supply, Ohio Standard and California Standard a point or more each.

British Petroleum was the volume leader, up ⅛ to 15 ⅜ on 194,800 shares. The stock has attracted attention lately as a result of British Pete's large North Sea oil holdings.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices moved irregularly in light trading. Imperial Oil led actives, up 2 ⅝ on 49 ¼ on 69,800 shares.

Royal Crown Cola declined 1 ¼ on the Big Board after reporting a slight decrease in third quarter earnings.

"Never have so many labored so much to achieve so little."

ounger Is ritical Of enal Study

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Atty. en. Evelle J. Younger, taking sue with the report of a na-onal advisory commission, id yesterday prisons are not tended to rehabilitate prison-rs.

In a speech before the Chart-ed Property Insurance Un-erwriters, Younger said a re-ent report by the National dvisory Commission on Crimi-al Justice Standards and oals, "approaches prisons rom the wrong viewpoint."

He said the report condemns risons "as failures because ney do not rehabilitate con-icts but prisons are not intend-d to rehabilitate.

"You hardly rehabilitate a an by locking him up," he aid. "Though we can and hould try our very best to ehabilitate the convict, let us ot condemn the criminal jus-ice system as this report would lo for failing to perform a unction it was never intended o perform.

"It should be made clear that risons can not rehabilitate in-mates."

Younger said prisons "aren't erfect. They're not as good as ve would like them. But we are making progress."

Churchill's Widow With Assist From Elizabeth Unveils Statue

LONDON (UPI) —Sir Winston Churchill's widow, frail but proud and misty-eyed, unveiled a massive bronze statue of Britain's revered wartime leader today near his beloved Parliament where he had his finest hours.

Lady Clementine Churchill, 88, supported by a walking stick and her grandson Winston, stepped shakily across Parliament Square to the 20-foot-high monument shrouded by a huge Union Jack.

She tugged at a golden tassel but the flag remained in place. Then Queen Elizabeth, sturdy and motherly, stepped forward and together both women pulled the cord.

What she saw was not the determined glower Churchill often displayed as he led Britain through "its finest hour" during World War II, but a quizzical expression as if the great statesman were searching for the answer to a momentous problem.

The inscription carved in the granite base said simply: "Churchill."

The Queen, addressing assembled dignitaries from beneath a blue-bordered canopy in front of the statue, said: "In the long history of this kingdom and of our Parliament, there is no man whose name and fame are more certain of an enduring place than Winston Churchill."

She said when Churchill finally resigned as prime minister in 1955, she offered him a dukedom which would have meant a seat in the House of Lords.

"But he wanted to spend his last years where he had passed almost all his adult life—in the House of Commons—and indeed he had no need for distinction greater than the name of Winston Churchill."

The first true self-adjusting color set ever SYLVANIA GT-MATIC™

The all new Sylvania GT-Matic color tuning system sees the picture before you do and automatically adjusts the color for you. The GT-Matic memory controls are locked inside the set with a key.

But personal preferences vary. And your geographic location can affect color reception. That's why you get the key to the GT-Matic locked memory controls. Should you ever wish to reset the controls, just unlock the control center, set the controls to your preference and then lock them up with the key. The GT-Matic system will remember your color preference and work to maintain it from channel to channel, program to program. And the key keeps little fingers from playing with knobs they should leave alone.

TM- Trademark GTE Sylvania Incorporated.

YOU MAY NEVER HAVE TO TOUCH THIS SET EXCEPT TO TURN IT ON OR CHANGE CHANNELS.

NEW locked GT-Matic memory controls remember your color preference. You get a key to keep it that way.

TOYOTA '74

You might think of Toyota as a car or two, just small potatoes in the small-car business.

You'll see coupes, 2-door sedans, 4-door sedans, station wagons, small pickup trucks and those very tough Land Cruisers.

Twenty-three models in all, and all so you can find exactly the kind of small car you're looking for.

The automotive experts say '74 is the year of the small car. We think you'll truly enjoy spending it in a new Toyota and seeing how much car your money can buy.

SMALL, STRONG, LONG TOYOTAS. Our new trucks have the biggest engines of all the small pickups, and one has a bed a foot longer than any other small pickup's.

LOW, LOW-PRICED TOYOTAS. Seven new Corollas this year, from the five-speed SR-5 to the lowest priced of all, the 1200 2-door sedan.

TOUGH TOYOTAS. The three new models of the steel-clad Land Cruiser come equipped to the teeth. They're for people who like to play rough.

SOFT TOYOTAS. The top of the Toyota line is Mark II, in three different models. Each comes with six cylinders and rich standard equipment. Worth giving up your big car for.

NEW-ALL-OVER TOYOTAS. The five new Coronas are virtually redesigned up one side and down the other. New safety features, advanced engineering. You'll see.

And so is the new Celica GT 5-speed.

And right behind, at a slightly lower price, is the new Celica ST with a standard 4-speed transmission or automatic you can order. Racy as these new Celicas are, both offer the economy of a six months or 6,000 mile recommended maintenance schedule.
